LAMPHERE IS ON TRIAL FOR LIFE

TAKING OF EVIDENCE IN CASE BEGINS TODAY.

JURY BOX IS AT LAST FILLED

PROSECUTOR SMITH MAKES THE OPENING STATEMENT.

GIVES A LINE ON EVIDENCE

Damaging Facts Are in Possession of State's Attorney, Who Calls Man Charged With Burning of Gunness Home a Murderer in the First Degree.

LA PORTE, Ind., Nov. 2.—The introduction of evidence in the trial of Ray Lamphere for the murder of Mrs. Belle Gunness and her three children by setting fire to the house will begin tomorrow morning, a jury having been secured late this afternoon, and State's Attorney Smith having made his opening statement to the jury before the adjournment of court.

Prosecutor Smith's opening statement to the jury consumed an hour, and in it he went into much detail as to what he could prove. After reading the Indiana statute, which provides that where a person or persons lose their lives in a fire willfully started by another, even though he may not have intended to cause the deaths of the person or persons, it becomes murder in the first degree and is punishable by death or life imprisonment, Prosecutor Smith stated "all we are required to show is that the defendant set fire to the house and that these occupants lost their lives by reason of this act."

Lamphere Hated Mrs. Gunness.

Mr. Smith said that the evidence will show that Lamphere made remarks to various persons indicating his hatred for Mrs. Gunness and his intention to do her harm, including the statement that he knew how to get money from her.

The fear that Mrs. Gunness felt for Lamphere was touched on, and then the prosecutor took up the story of the night of the fire and what the state would prove. He said that by Lamphere's own statement it would be proven that he set the alarm clock at Mr. Smith's house, where he spent the night, for 2 o'clock on the morning of April 13, and that 15 or 20 minutes later he left there. "We will also prove" continued the state's attorney, "by Lamphere's own statement that he took the road going by the Gunness house and that he was on the spot when the fire broke out about 4 o'clock and that he was the only person around at that time. We will prove that he was at the Lake Erie crossing at 4:50 a. m. This is a mile and a quarter away. We will show that, instead of going on the highway, Lamphere jumped over fences and ran along through the woods to John Ross' place, where he was going to get a broadax before continuing to the Henry Warwick place, where he was employed. We will show by the evidence that when he was arrested that night by Deputy Sheriffs Anstiss and Marr that the first thing he said was, 'Did those folks get out of the house?' so you see the thought foremost in his mind was the burning of that house."

Mrs. Gunness Feared Lamphere.

The prosecutor then took up the events of the day and evening preceding the fire, so far as they concerned Mrs. Gunness, and told of her visit to Attorney Lolliter's office for the purpose of making her will and of her expressed fears of Lamphere. The prosecutor told of her purchase of groceries and toys, games, etc., for the children. He said that by Jos. Maxson, the hired man, it would be proven that all had supper about 7 o'clock and that among other things they had beefsteak, and my reason for mentioning this, ob-

GOMPERS FEARS HOSTILE MOVE

HEARS DISCONCERTING NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

DETRIMENTAL LAW PROPOSED

SHERMAN ANTITRUST LAW TO BE AMENDED.

WILL PUT UP STRONG FIGHT

Head A. F. of L. Proposes Going to Washington to Fight Measure. Gompers Is Invited to Attend Next British Congress in Interest of Labor.

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 12.—At the close of today's session of the Twenty-eighth annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, President Samuel Gompers, in thanking the speakers of the day, said that he had heard since coming to Denver that it was intended by the present session of Congress to pass a bill amending the Sherman antitrust law in a way detrimental to the labor movement. He said if such an attempt is made he would fight it in the halls of Congress. At the request of Mr. Gompers, the secretary then read a letter from William J. Bryan, in which he thanked Gompers and the other members of the federation for the support given him during the recent presidential campaign.

With the exception of two reports made at the morning session, the entire day was spent in listening to reports, fraternal and other addresses.

The first speaker of the afternoon session was Rev. Charles Stelzle, superintendent of the immigration board of the home missions of the Presbyterian church, of New York. He took for his subject, "The Parallel Aims of the Church and the Labor Party."

Women Represented.

Mrs. Raymond Robbins and Mrs. Anna Fitzgerald, representing the Women's Trade Union league, addressed the convention, telling the delegates of the organization movement among women. Mrs. Robbins said the league consisted of four branches, one each in Chicago, New York, Boston and St. Louis. She said they were trying to teach concerted action to the women.

Miss Fitzgerald spoke of the part the women can take in the labor movement, by insisting that the union label is on all their purchases. The league is now endeavoring to organize the women in the homes.

Andrew Furuseth read the report of the federation delegates to the Forty-first British trade union congress. He said the committee found that in England, women and children were being pitted against the men in all lines of industry. He said that a majority of the English workingmen oppose a tariff because they believe it would increase the cost of living. He read an invitation from the congress urging that Samuel Gompers attend the next British congress.

Hugh Frany, the federation's delegate to the trades and labor congress of Canada, read his report, which was a brief record of the official proceedings of the congress.

Universal Organization.

There being no other reports, Gompers called upon Raymond Robbins of Chicago, for an address. Robbins spoke briefly on "The Universal Organization, the Only Salvation."

He urged the necessity of organizing all kinds of labor.

President James Lynch of the Typographical union, was then called upon and told the convention the history of the establishment of the Union Printers home at Colorado Springs. He said that it now costs about $75,000 a year to maintain the institution.

PROHIBITIONISTS ARE TURNED DOWN COLD

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE IGNORES POLITICAL PARTY.

Is Declared Greatest Foe to Temperance at Secret Session of District Convention in Iowa.

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 12.—At a secret session of the central district convention of the American Antisaloon league today it was decided to adopt a policy ignoring the Prohibition party entirely.

Trickery on the part of the present Prohibitionists during the recent campaign in Nebraska was openly charged.

It was further declared that amalgamation with the party had resulted in failure and defeat for the Antisaloon league in every state where it had been attempted.

State superintendents present asserted that the Prohibition party was their greatest foe in the fight to secure the election of men favorable to temperance legislation. The liquor interests took advantage of this fact, said the league officials, and used every means to further split temperance ranks.

National Superintendent P. A. Baker made an address in which he pointed out the disadvantages of any cooperation with the Prohibitionists. National Superintendent Baker also publicly denounced the statement issued by the whisky trust to the effect that he had received $1,000 from John D. Rockefeller for the National Antisaloon league.

BALKAN SITUATION AT ACUTE STAGE

WAR STILL RECOGNIZED AS A POSSIBILITY.

Everything Depends on the Nature of Note Which Is Expected From Vienna Today.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 13.—Although an air of outward calm is maintained at the Russian foreign office the Balkan situation has now reached an acute stage where everything depends upon the nature of the note which is expected from Vienna tomorrow and the outcome of the mediation which Russia, France and Great Britain have undertaken at Belgrade at Austria-Hungary's request, with a view to limiting the belligerent activity of Servia. If mediation is not successful, war is recognized as a possibility in authoritative circles.

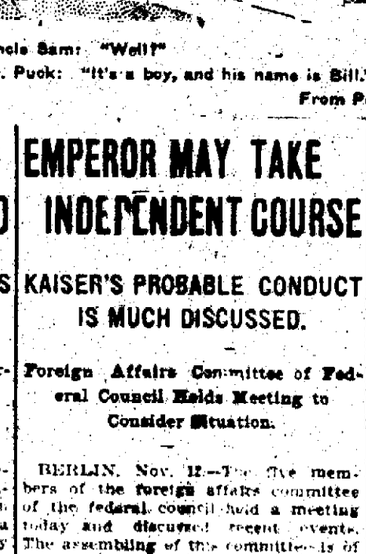

The Austro-Hungarian-Servian relations are too strained, it is believed, to permit present conditions to continue indefinitely. The Austrian note will definitely outline the attitude of that government regarding discussion of the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina and possible compensation to Servia and Montenegro, and the nature of the note will determine whether or not an international congress can be held. While the Balkan and Persian questions remain unsettled, M. Iswolsky, the foreign minister, will be unable to give attention to the request of the United States government for a revision of the treaty of 1832 relating to commerce and navigation. The American proposals, which are aimed at securing an amelioration of the conditions under which emigrants from that country to the United States are liable to imprisonment or other punishment upon their return, have been referred to subordinate officials of the foreign ministry with instructions to prepare a report but the chances for the serious consideration of the proposals in the immediate future are small.

EMPEROR MAY TAKE INDEPENDENT COURSE

KAISER'S PROBABLE CONDUCT IS MUCH DISCUSSED.

Foreign Affairs Committee of Federal Council Holds Meeting to Consider Situation.

BERLIN, Nov. 12.—The five members of the foreign affairs committee of the federal council held a meeting today and discussed recent events. The assembling of this committee is of very rare occurrence and much interest and speculation was aroused by the intimation that the meeting was called with the idea of taking some steps to prevent Emperor William from pursuing an independent course in the foreign affairs of the empire. In well informed circles it is affirmed tonight however, that the committeemen did nothing more today than read certain papers relating to the Casa Blanca incident. They were entertained at dinner by Chancellor Von Buelow.

Today has been full of rumors and surmises concerning what attitude Emperor William would adopt toward Chancellor Von Buelow, the reichstag and public sentiment at large. His majesty spent the day for hunting and had breakfast in the forest. Prince Von Furstenberg, his most intimate friend, is with him. The present is a time when the smallest circumstances are studied in order to arrive at an understanding of what his majesty's future course may be, and there is satisfaction that he is with the prince, whose influence is regarded as restraining and wise. The prince is the only man who seems to speak plainly to the emperor, and his majesty treats him as an equal. Their ancestors were counts together in Swabia eight centuries ago. The prince is vice president of the Austrian imperial council and a knight of the Golden Fleece, he is as much an Austrian subject as a German.

Although not of aristocratic descent, he is not a reactionary and is looked upon as distinctly modern in his political views. There is considerable doubt as to whether or not Prince Von Buelow will remain in office and free mention is made of possible successors. The names of Dr. Theobald Bethmann-Hollweg, minister of the interior, and Baron Von Rheinbaben, Prussian minister of state, are most frequently heard in this connection. The Frankfurter Zeitung today says the situation will not be settled until after the emperor and Prince Von Buelow have had a personal meeting and this is the prevailing view on the reichstag. There is nothing more to be done at present.

The reichstag today discussed questions of colonial expenditure to empty galleries.

ROOSEVELT INVITES TAFT TO VISIT HIM

PRESIDENT-ELECT'S CABINET WILL BE DISCUSSED.

Last Message to Congress of Outgoing Chief Executive Is Ready for Perusal by Taft.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—At the White House Saturday night and Sunday, President-elect W. H. Taft will be the guest of President Roosevelt, having accepted an invitation from the latter to stop here on his return from New York city en route to Hot Springs, Va. It will be the first time the President and Mr. Taft will have met each other since the election. The President's message to Congress probably will be in shape for Mr. Taft's perusal, and Mr. Taft's cabinet probably will be discussed.

President-elect Taft's trip to New York city is for the purpose of making a speech at the dedication of the prison-ship martyrs monument in Fort Green park, Brooklyn. He will reach New York City early Saturday, and immediately after the ceremonies at the monument in the afternoon will leave for Washington, arriving here at 11:30 p. m. He will be driven to the White House and will spend the night there. On Sunday morning he will attend religious services with the President, probably at the President's church.

STANDARD OIL CASE IS CARRIED HIGHER

WILL BE APPEALED TO U. S. SUPREME COURT.

This Decision Is Arrived at by Department of Justice After an All-Day Conference.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Following the recent action of the circuit court of appeals in Chicago, in refusing the United States government a rehearing of the Standard Oil case, made famous by its $29,000,000 fine, the department of justice tonight decided to carry the case to the supreme court of the United States. The decision was reached after an all-day conference between Attorney General Bonaparte and government attorneys who have been engaged in the case.

"Application will be made to the supreme court when it reconvenes Monday, Nov. 30, for a writ of certiorari to bring up and review the action of the circuit court of appeals. The following statement was issued late tonight by the department in the adjournment of the conference which began at 9 o'clock.

"A prolonged conference was held today at the department of justice with respect to the action of the circuit court of appeals in Chicago, in refusing a rehearing of the Standard Oil case. At different times during the day Attorney General Bonaparte was in consultation with Solicitor General Hoyt, United States Attorney Sims of Chicago, and his assistant, J. H. Wilkerson and F. B. Kellogg, special counsel in the civil suits against the Standard Oil company. It was found that a considerable number of changes had been made in the opinion of the court of appeals originally rendered and that Judge Baker of that court had filed a separate concurring opinion which differed materially in its reasoning from that of Judge Grosscup. After a careful consideration of all phases of the situation it was decided that an application should be made to the supreme court of the United States when it reconvenes, November 30, for a writ of certiorari to bring up and review the action of the circuit court of appeals. The necessary papers for the purpose will be produced without delay."

Americans Are Paying Only for the Labels of Foreign Goods, Expert Declares — Hearing Before House Ways and Means Committee Spirited.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The wave of prohibition which, it is claimed, has spread over the country, apparently has had little effect on the consumption of alcoholic liquors and spirituous drinks, according to evidence brought out at today's hearing on the proposed tariff revision before the House committee on ways and means. It was apparent, too, that the liquor interests are, on the whole, well satisfied with the present tariff on spirits, wines and other beverages, as the wine growers and importers were practically the only interests represented at today's hearing.

The morning session was enlivened by a sharp but good-natured colloquy between Percy T. Morgan, representing the wine growers' interests of California, and Representative Boutell of Illinois. Mr. Morgan was telling the committee why the regulations of the Dingley tariff, covering the importations of still wines, should also apply to those wines imported from countries with which the United States has reciprocity treaties. Addressing Mr. Boutell, Mr. Morgan said:

"My contention is that wines can be imported under the present reciprocity arrangements up to 24 per cent, which is 48 proof, while the whisky you yourself drink is only 85 proof."

Doesn't Drink Whisky.

"The whisky I drink is not any proof," was Mr. Boutell's quick rejoinder.

"You may take some occasionally for medicinal purposes," said Mr. Morgan.

"I never take any," replied Mr. Boutell.

Mr. Morgan maintained that under the present reciprocity treaties with the principal producing countries, alcohol diluted with wine could be imported instead of wine diluted with alcohol.

"In any revision of the tariff on wines there should be re-established a differential between wines containing only alcohol produced by natural fermentation and those which have been fortified by the addition of distilled spirits," he said, "so that the consumption may not continue to be prejudiced of the possibility of importing alcohol into the United States at a less rate of duty than is exacted on domestic spirits by the revenue laws, or of such a handicap being placed on the domestic wine producer as the possibility of importing a wine of such alcoholic strength that after arrival in the United States the addition of water may effect the cutting in half of the established import duty."

Pay for French Labels.

W. F. Hildreth of New York, a champagne expert, declared that the cost of making American wines was much greater than was that of producing French wines and champagnes. He was telling the committee that Americans only pay for the French labels, when Champ Clark remarked: "There are not a thousand men in the United States who, after they have had three drinks, can tell what they are drinking."

L. J. Vance of New York, secretary of the American Wine Growers association, declared that the reciprocity treaties gave the importers of foreign

TAKE CONSULAR EXAMINATIONS

TWENTY-SIX REPRESENTATIVES COME TO CAPITAL.

IN LINE FOR PROMOTION

SERVICE HAS REACHED STATE OF IDEAL EFFICIENCY.

TAFT IS MUCH INTERESTED

No Deterioration Possible Under Administration of Big Ohioan—Haskin Gives Insight Into Character and Duties of Representatives of Service.

By Frederic J. Haskin.

Twenty-six consular representatives of the United States came to Washington from the four ends of the earth for the consular examinations which ended yesterday. Upon the showing made in these examinations promotions will be made and vacancies filled. These examinations for promotion mark an important epoch in the improvement of the consular service under the operation of the law which became effective July 1, 1906. In a little more than two years that law, supplemented by executive orders of President Roosevelt, has accomplished more to bring the consular service to a state of ideal efficiency than had been done in 20 years before.

The United States consular service was for many years subjected to adverse criticism from both foreigners and Americans. Today the system is looked upon by foreign nations as having well-nigh ideal. There are still many imperfections, but the improvement continues and will continue under the administration of President Taft, who is heartily interested in the subject.

Consular Reform Law.

Briefly, the consular reform law of 1906 abolished the fee system and placed consular officers upon a salary, provided a classification of duties and instituted a system of inspection. Five consul generals at large now travel all over the world, and the affairs of each consulate are investigated at least once in two years. President Roosevelt supplemented that law by providing a scheme of consular examinations, by which men designated by the President are examined by a special board to establish their fitness for appointment to the consular service. These examinations are not competitive and the appointments are not made from the list of "eligibles," but, everything else being equal, the man who makes the best showing in the examination gets the job. At any rate, the examination system gives assurance that no one will be appointed who does not possess the necessary qualifications for the position. As no one may take the examinations unless especially designated by the President, the powers that be still retain the ultimate appointing power and politics is not entirely removed from the equation.

Appointments Distributed.

The present administration has endeavored to distribute the consular appointments as nearly as possible among the states. As the south had very few men in the service when the new order began, many southerners and Democrats have been appointed under the examinations. In practice, therefore, politics is more nearly divorced from the consular service than ever before.

Examinations are held about three times a year. Until this month they have been solely for applicants desiring appointment. This time, officers who had made good records in subordinate positions in the service were brought home for examination for promotion. Advancement will not necessarily follow, but there is reason to believe that the men who make the best showing in the examinations will be

CHICAGO WOMAN HIRES "SLUGGER" TO KILL HER MOTHER FOR INSURANCE

Instigates Plot of the Aid of Detective Agency Where She Applies for Man to Commit Foul Crime. Police at Once Notified and Arrest Is Made. Is Thought Demented.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Miss Mae L. Otis, 26 years of age, was arrested here tonight, charged by the police with having instigated a plot to murder her mother, Mrs. Sarah Otis, 55 years of age. According to the police, the mother was to have arrived in Chicago from Manston, Wis., next Saturday and a private detective, supposed by Miss Otis to be a "slugger" had been employed to help her. Instead of promoting the scheme, the detective notified Police Captain O'Brien. The mother is said to have money and life insurance together worth $8,800.

The movements of the woman have been watched by the police for several days. Some time ago she called on a private detective agency and explained her plans. It was arranged between the agency and the police to carry on the affair.

Detective Mackey was introduced as a "slugger" from Pittsburg. Tonight Mackey met Miss Otis and according to him, she paid him $100 on account and gave him a promissory note for $2,400 more. Just as Mackey received the money at Miss Otis' home in Forty-sixth place, the police officials who had been concealed there, stepped out and took the woman into custody. It was found she had considerable money in her possession. This, she explained, she had drawn out of the bank to be used to pay the expenses of the detective. When locked up the police say the woman confessed to the plot and expressed chagrin at its failure. It is believed she is demented.

EXPLOSION IN RADBED MINE, GERMANY, KILLS MORE THAN THREE HUNDRED MINERS

Greatest Disaster in Many Years Leaves Scores of Families Grief Stricken. Rescue Work Is Suspended Because of Fire Raging Underground. Cause of Accident Is Not Yet Clear.

HAMM, Westphalia, Germany, Nov. 12.—The greatest mine disaster in many years in Germany occurred this morning at the Radbed mine, about three miles from this place. There was a heavy explosion about 4 a. m. and almost immediately the mine took fire. Of 280 miners working underground at the time, only six escaped without injury. Thirty-five men were taken out badly hurt and 37 were dead when brought to the mouth of the pit. The remaining 302 have been given up for lost.

The explosion was unusually violent, destroying one of the shafts, which had to be partly repaired before the rescue work began.

In addition, the flames and smoke proved almost insurmountable obstacles in the early efforts of the rescuing parties. A special corps, composed of the men who rendered such valuable aid in the terrible mine disaster at Courrieres, France, in March, 1906, arrived upon the scene shortly before noon, but were unable to enter the mine, being forced to await the result of the efforts of the firemen to keep the flames in check.

Meantime, heartrending scenes took place at the mine when the dead and wounded were brought to the surface, and there were similar scenes in the town when the injured were transported through the streets to the hospitals. At 1 o'clock the fire had made great headway and later in the afternoon, after a consultation of engineers, it was decided that any further attempts to rescue the entombed men would be in vain, owing to impossibility of entering the galleries. At the same time an order was issued to flood the mine. First reports indicated that the accident was the result of an explosion of coal dust, but the statements of the injured men leads [illegible] and it is not [illegible]

WILL BE GOVERNOR OF IOWA FOR SIX WEEKS

WARREN GARST.

DES MOINES, Nov. 12.—Warren Garst of Coon Rapids, will be governor of Iowa for six weeks. He was defeated at the Republican primaries for the gubernatorial nomination, but he is yet to be governor. Governor Cummins at a special session of the legislature November 21, will be elected to the United States Senate to succeed the late William B. Allison. He will immediately resign and the gubernatorial robe will fall upon the shoulders of Lieutenant Governor Garst whose duty it will be to write and present to the legislature this winter the biennial message. This same legislature will install B. F. Carroll as governor.

THE ONE MAN IN ALL THE COUNTRY IN POSITION TO SAY "I TOLD YOU SO"

FRANK HITCHCOCK.

The one man most entitled to the right of way in the "I told you so" slogan so dear to femininity is Frank Hitchcock the chairman of the Republican national committee. Of course Hitchcock who seems to be slated for postmaster general, is too modest to say the words but he has earned them just the same. Of all political predictors he is the champion.

This was first apparent in the Republican national convention when he guessed within two votes of Taft's majority in the convention.

Again in the elections just passed, Hitchcock stated in the authentic way that Taft would receive 325 electoral votes. With Missouri safely in the Republican columns he has 319 and Maryland still to be decided. Maryland has eight votes and if these with Republican he will have 32 or if it is split as now looks apparent Taft will receive just the 325 predicted.

The question arises as to whether this is due to some good fortune or his grasp on the situation and it is undoubtedly the latter.

No man is a closer follower of details than Hitchcock. He has been termed the "Card Index" chairman. This is not literally so as is generally thought, but figuratively it is for he follows almost each voter in each state and his predictions are not guesswork but the knowledge based on facts.

TREMENDOUS POPULARITY OF SIMPLE HOME PRESCRIPTION.

No Sufferer of Kidney Trouble or Rheumatism Should Leave It Untried.

That the readers of this paper appreciate advice which given in good faith is plainly demonstrated by the fact that one well-known local pharmacy supplied the ingredients for the vegetable prescription many times within the past two weeks. The announcement of this simple harmless mixture has certainly accomplished much in reducing the great many cases of kidney complaint and rheumatism here relieving pain and misery especially among the older population who are always suffering more or less with bladder and urinary troubles backache and particularly rheumatism.

Another well-known druggist asks us to continue the announcement of the prescription. It is doing so much real good here he continues that it can not be repeated too often and further states many cases of remarkable cures wrought.

The following is the prescription of simple ingredients making a harmless inexpensive compound which any person can prepare by shaking well in a bottle Fluid Extract Dandelion one-half ounce Compound Kargon one ounce Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla three ounces. Any first-class drug store will sell this small amount of each ingredient and the dose for adults is one teaspoonful to be taken after each meal and again at bedtime. There is enough here to last for one week if taken according to directions. Good results will be apparent from the first few doses.

BUFFALO, Nov. 12—Two boats, containing 10 Chinamen, were wrecked against the breakwater half a mile east of Michigan street early today. Six of the Chinamen were dashed against the rocks and wedged in. The six died apparently of fractured skulls while the four others, who were rescued, have scalp wounds. One of the Chinamen, who speaks English, said he was running the boats and that no Americans were with the party. The living Chinamen were arrested.

LA PORTE, Ind., Nov. 12.—The resumption of digging at the Gunness farm is not beyond the range of possibility as the result of a story told Judge Richter this noon by John Zach. The latter says that in April, 1907 Mrs. Gunness engaged him to move a pig sty, but before the final location was found it was necessary for him to move it three times under her directions. Zach now believes that there are bodies underneath the structure.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12—In a search covering not only the United States but the islands of the Carribean sea, Robert Curry, alias Robert Grant, was arrested in this city today. He was captured in the postoffice, where it is said he was accustomed to go to receive letters from his sweetheart in California.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Fancy bred horses yielded the ring to some extent today to those intended for more practical purposes when the fourth day of the horse show opened. SUFFRAGISTS DEFILE CHURCH

LONDON, Nov. 12—The suffragettes tonight for the first time carried their campaign into a place of worship. Augustine Birrell chief secretary for Ireland while addressing a meeting in favor of disestablishment at the city temple was subjected to disgraceful interruptions. Nearly a score of the adherents of the suffragette movement men and women were ejected from the building, amid uproarious scenes of struggling and violence. The earnest appeals of Secretary Birrell and the pastor of the temple to the disturbers to respect the sacred building were without avail.

champagne a reduction of $2 per case in the duty and that those importers used the dollars thus saved for the purpose of advertising and keeping a trade which the American wine makers possibly could get if they had a similar amount to spend for that purpose He also asked for an increase of the duties on mineral waters to meet the high tariffs of foreign countries He declared that France practically prohibits the importation of American waters

At the afternoon session C J King and John H Wheeler of New York argued for a decrease in the duties on ale, porter and beer and declared that as a result imported ale and stout would be cheaper to the consumer. Saying that Irish ginger ale could not possibly be sold cheaper that the domestic article, even if put on the free list, Mr King asked for a reduction in the tariff on that beverage. GOMPERS FEARS HOSTILE MOVE is a coal miner of Great Britain and a member of parliament, in a talk before the federation today, said that in the tariff protected United States as in free-trade Great Britain workingmen must have a strong organization in order to obtain from employers a fair share of the profits of their labor. He reviewed the labor improvement made in the condition of coal miners in England, Scotland and Wales

British Unions Healthy.

Herbert Skinner, also representing the British trade unionists said British trades unionism was never in as healthy a condition as at present A labor daily newspaper he announced was being agitated and he expected soon to see such a paper in this country

The union label, he said had not made much progress in Great Britain but the unionists were agitating the question and making experiments in its use He then explained the object of the British labor party and the connection of the Socialist party with the labor party

P M Draper fraternal delegate from the Dominion of Canada was next heard Although not living under a monarchy he said, he noticed the United States had the same problems to solve as Canada.

The speaker then told the convention of some of the the work that the Canadian trade and labor congress was trying to accomplish Mr Draper was bitter against the Salvation Army saying that it has been acting as agent for the capitalist class in securing the emigration of large numbers of mechanics from England who came to Canada in times of strikes and thus harmed the union men of the dominion.

"There is no division between us of Canada and you of the United States as trade unionists," he said in conclusion preferred in the event of vacancies higher up.

From the time of the establishment of the United States government until 1856 the consular service was in a chaotic condition Thomas Jefferson, as secretary of state in Washington's cabinet, organized the service at the beginning The government could not pay salaries and the fees were not sufficient to support a man Therefore the consular appointments were given to Americans who were residing abroad in business or to wealthy men who wished to live abroad for their own pleasure. President Jackson attempted to induce Congress to reform the service and abolish the fee system, but without avail

Buchanan Favored Examination.

James Buchanan, as secretary of state in President Pierce's cabinet, formulated the reform bill of 1856, which provided for the admission of men to the lower grades of the service upon merit established by examination The next Congress emasculated the law Efforts were made at intervals to induce Congress to abolish the fee system and provide for a uniform method of appointment, but nothing was done

President Cleveland took a forward step by issuing an order that vacancies in the lower grades of consulates should be filled by promotion from consular clerkships, from the department of state, or from a list of those who had established their qualifications by examinations. Of the 13 candidates examined under this order before Mr Cleveland's retirement, eight were passed and five were rejected President McKinley left the order in force, but as consuls were removed by the wholesale and friends of the new administration appointed in their stead, the examination became purely perfunctory and was eventually discontinued Of 112 candidates examined at the beginning of the McKinley administration, only one was rejected.

"THE BALL THAT ALMOST KILLED FATHER" FOUND

Postmaster Morgan of New York perpetrates Joke on Finding Bullet Which Almost Ended His Life.

NEW YORK, Nov 12—If the recovery of Postmaster Edward M Morgan, who was shot last Monday by Eric H B Mackey, a demented stenographer, continues, he will be at his desk the first week in December in time to supervise the handling of the enormous Christmas mail that annually swamps the New York postoffice Mr Morgan was feeling so well today that he brought up the subject of the shooting and asked if the bullet which wounded him had been found When told that it had not he asked to have his overcoat brought to him, saying that perhaps the leaden ball had been lodged in the lining after passing through his side The overcoat was brought, but the bullet was not in the lining

"Well, it must be somewhere Bring me the rest of my clothing," said Mr. Morgan His coat and vest were brought and after some minutes the postmaster fished a battered piece of lead out of a lower vest pocket Holding it up he said, to his wife "You've heard of the blow that almost killed father me dear" Well here's the ball that almost killed father"

Strong protests were made against the wholesale removal of capable consuls for purely political reasons, as had been done by the Democrats under Cleveland and the Republicans under McKinley. The business men of the country were beginning to appreciate the importance of the consular service, and they desired that it be given some degree of stability. The crusade on the part of the business men, having the aid of the Roosevelt administration, culminated in the enactment of the consular reform law of 1906 By that law all fees are required to be paid into the treasury and consuls are paid a salary. The consul-general to London, whose fees had amounted to $50,000 a year as much as is paid the President, was given a salary of $12,000. The consuls-general were apportioned in seven classes, ranging in salary from $12,000 to $3,000 The consuls were divided into nine classes, ranging in salary from $8,000 to $2,000 Provision was made for the subordinate officers and the whole service was systematized for the first time.

In the Old Days.

In the old days the chief duties of consuls were those connected with American shipping abroad These are still vitally important, but consuls are expected to do many other things in these days Most important of all the American consuls are expected to look out for opportunities to expand American trade and make reports to Washington for the guidance of American business men

The consular reports have been published ever since 1856 At first they were issued annually then quarterly then monthly But now the consular reports are published daily and are sent all over the country to commercial organizations exporters, newspapers and individuals who may be interested It is difficult to estimate the value of these daily consular reports but there is no doubt that they are adding millions of dollars a year to the foreign trade of the United States.

In many places, the consular officers are also charged with duties which are diplomatic in character In several non-Christian countries the consuls have judicial powers and are empowered to adjudicate legal disputes in which an American is a party On account of the varied requirements of the service appointment or promotion by competitive examination alone is impossible A man might have a very high standing in his examinations, and might be admirably suited for a consulate in South America, and at the same time be unavailable for service in China

Sailors Given Transportation.

Many complaints made against consuls originate in ignorance of the duties of those in the service If an American sailor with discharge papers properly attested applies to a consul for help, the consul is bound to secure for him return passage to the United States The law provides for that, and the expense is borne by the government But a plain American who happens to be stranded on a foreign shore has no more right to call upon the consul for assistance than upon any other person If the consul does help him the consul pays the bill out of his own pocket The loss of work from stranded Americans is not the least among the burdens of the consular officer

Notwithstanding the uncertain tenure of office under a system in which offices are given as rewards for political activity, there are many men in the consular service who have served their country for years As there has been no change in party administration in subjected to a great upheaval for a long time That fact of course, has aided in the general improvement of conditions

Nestor of Service.

The Nestor of the consular service is Oscar Malmros now consul at Rouen, France Mr Malmros received his first commission as consul from the hands of Abraham Lincoln just a few weeks before that great man was assassinated His first post was at Galtz in Roumania Soon afterward he was sent to Winnipeg, Manitoba That great city was then a trading post, with a population of only 400 and was still under the rule of the Hudson Bay company Mr Malmros has been in and out of the service several times having been stationed at several places in British America and Europe Just before his present assignment he was at Colon on the Isthmus of Panama.

Yet, with all his experience, Mr. Malmros has been always subject to the exigencies of politics Until the present time, the consular service has offered few inducements for a career for a young man If promoted to a consulate, there was the danger of being superseded by some man who had carried a doubtful precinct for a favorite son If there was no vacancy in the particular consulate where one was employed, there was little hope for any promotion.

These things have been changed under the new order of things The 26 consular representatives who were brought to Washington from the four ends of the earth to take the examinations, are nearly all young men They feel that they are on the threshold of an honorable career in the service of their country They are devoting their whole energies to preparation for the important work which they are to do for the United States in foreign lands. They bear testimony that the consular service has been reformed

NEW YORK, Nov 12—Baron F B. HISTORIC PLAYHOUSE BURNS

NEW YORK Nov 12—Less than an hour after a large audience had left the Park theater, a historic Brooklyn playhouse fire was discovered tonight and an hour later the building was in ruins Mrs Mary Spooner head of the Spooner Stock company which was filling an engagement at the theater, and several members of the company were in their dressing rooms and the office, but they escaped without injury One fireman was hurt, but not seriously The loss will be about $125,000

WILL APPEAL TOBACCO CASE

Both Sides Dissatisfied With Decision of United States Circuit Court. Receiver Is Wanted.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—That appeal would be taken by both sides from the recent judgment of the United States circuit court in the proceedings against the American Tobacco company was stated here today following the return from Washington, D. C., of John Mc Reynolds, the government's counsel in the suit.

The action of the court in directing dismissal of the petition as to the Imperial Tobacco company and the United Cigar Stores company, the government counsel thinks was erroneous. The American Tobacco company and its 60 odd subsidiary companies, which still stay parties defendant, have as yet entered no formal appeal, but the government representatives have no expectation that the period for such appeal will be allowed to pass without action by the defendants.

Mr. McReynolds said tonight that the government appeal would permit it to present to the supreme court the whole subject of federal receivership for trusts. Receiverships were denied in the tobacco cases, he said, to obviate the harshness of the remedy by injunction, which would stop at once all activity on the part of the individual corporation and probably work public inconvenience. He believed the receivership idea, allowing the concerns affairs to be wound up gradually, was much the better course.

IMPORTANT MINING SUIT

WALLACE, Idaho, Nov. 12.—The Tyrone Mining company has sued the Bunker Hill and Sullivan Mining company for the recovery of $7,500,000 alleged to be value of ore taken from a disputed vein in the last three years and for the control of the famous Mariner vein from which tons of millions of dollars worth of ore has been extracted. Two other suits involving millions of dollars are pending against the Bunker Hill company at the instance of the Federal Mining and Smelting company on much the same proposition.

ROOT IS NOT A CANDIDATE

Secretary of State Declares Talk of His Making an Effort to Succeed Platt in Senate Is Rumor.

BOSTON, Nov. 12.—In an interview published in an afternoon paper, Secretary of State Root stated today that he was not a candidate for the United States Senate. He said:

"I am not a candidate for the Senate. There has been a lot of talk about that, but it is all rumor."

Secretary Root came to Boston to attend the funeral of his cousin, Colonel E. L. Butterick.

BALLOON COMES TO GRIEF

BERLIN, Nov. 12.—One of the dirigible balloons of the German army made a flight from here last night and came down in the water near Wollin, on the Baltic, after having been badly damaged by a collision with a tree. The pilots were not injured, however, and were safely brought to land. The envelope was torn its entire length, the steering gear was broken and all gas escaped. The balloon lay on the water two hours before it was towed ashore. The flight lasted 10 hours.

OFFICIALS UNDER A CLOUD

Schenectady County New York, Supervisors Resign.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Nov. 12.—Five members of the Schenectady county board of supervisors tendered their resignations tonight at request of a citizens committee who allege that the board sold supplies to the county, making out the bills in the names of other persons and that extravagant bills have been paid without question. Other members of the board are expected to resign tomorrow. Those who have resigned are Edward C. Bacon, E. H. Robinson, Myron Jacobs and Aaron H. Huffmire, representing city wards, and A. H. Cady, of town of Rotterdam.

Charles N. Vandenbergh, county superintendent of construction and repairs, has resigned at the request of the committee. All the retiring officials declare they welcome the closest scrutiny of their official acts.

Chairman Farmer Commission Has Only Begun Monster Task

President Roosevelt recently said that he would rather go down in history as having started a movement to benefit the farmer than anything else he has accomplished.

While the commission appointed last summer with Liberty Hall Bailey, director of the New York State Agricultural college at Cornell university as chairman, has not as yet had time to accomplish much, it is busily engaged getting its bearings. Over half a million circular-letters have already been sent throughout the country. They have been addressed to farmers, railway men, country ministers, country doctors, teachers and others who are interested in country life. Most of the names have been taken from the lists of agricultural colleges, state and national experiment stations, agricultural societies and granges, country papers and farmers' directories.

Already great quantities of mail are pouring into the headquarters at Washington. All of the regular answers to the formal questions that have been asked in our circulars go direct to the census bureau, where they are tabulated. Any letters out of the ordinary, however, relating to special phases of country life or pertaining to some special line of inquiry are sent direct to Chairman Bailey's office. Here they are sorted and sent to the different members of the commission who have been assigned to special phases of the questions. For instance, letters referring to the country church go to one member, those in relation to the cost of farm implements to another, those affecting sanitary conditions to another, and so on.

LIBERTY HALL BAILEY, CHAIRMAN OF FARMERS COMMISSION.

The present object is to study the problem in the broadest possible way and then suggest practical means for bettering the conditions on the farm in order to make it more desirable for the bright, ambitious young man.

There is no question, but that the farming community is the substantial foundation on which the great American republic rests. Farm life should appeal to the young man instead of driving him away to the city. This is the purpose of the commission, and no more laudable undertaking was ever started.

SMUGGLERS COME TO GRIEF

Boat Containing Ten Chinese Is Wrecked Just Out of Buffalo.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 12.—A motor boat, containing 10 Canadian and Chinese men, was wrecked on the breakwall off the foot of Michigan street, early today. Six of the Chinamen were drowned or dashed to death against the rock-ribbed seawall. The four survivors were rescued by the crew of a police boat. The three white men escaped, and the federal authorities and the local detective forces tonight are scouring the city, endeavoring to round up the men suspected of being engaged in the smuggling of Chinamen into this country from Canada. At first it was supposed the white men perished, but from one of the surviving Chinamen it was learned that they clambered over the slippery rocks and fled, leaving the Chinamen to their fate. How the white men got away to shore was the subject of a searching investigation. The statement of a caretaker watchman, that a second motor boat left the shore side of the breakwall just before dawn is a clue upon which the authorities are now working, and which may lead to arrests.

WANTS ROOT IN SENATE

Union League Club, New York, Advocates His Election.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The election of Secretary Elihu Root to the United States Senate to succeed Senator Platt was advocated in resolutions adopted by the Union League club at a meeting held tonight. They were offered by Joseph H. Choate and seconded by General Horace Porter and General Anson G. McCook.

A committee of 9 was authorized to carry them into effect.

The resolutions declare it desirable and necessary that New York, with its vast commercial and business interests, should be represented in the Senate by a man able and willing to assert its just authority to defend its interests and to maintain its dignity, and allude to Mr. Root's eminent and unique fitness for the position, and the universal recognition of his great and unselfish services which he rendered to the country as Secretary of state and secretary of war.

TAFT AND SHERMAN WILL MEET ON LINKS

MEN WHO HEAD NEXT ADMINISTRATION TO PLAY GAME.

Vice President-Elect Joins Coming Chief Executive at Hot Springs. Scott Favors Tariff Revision.

HOT SPRINGS, Va., Nov. 12.—President-Elect William H. Taft was joined here today by Vice President-Elect Sherman, who said he had come to the Virginia mountains to rest and play for a week. He met Judge Taft on the veranda of the Homestead hotel, and the two exchanged cordial greetings.

"Come up to the cottage and see me any time," said Taft, after the two had chatted briefly.

"I will do it and be glad to," responded Mr. Sherman. But the vice president occupied the anteroom with a game of golf with Mr. William L. Ward, national committeeman from New York, and the call was not made today.

While no definite engagement has been made for a game on the links between the two men who are to head the next administration, each has expressed a wish to play the other, and the interesting event may take place tomorrow.

Speaking seriously, Mr. Sherman said no matters of state had brought him here. He was taking a week's rest, and came here at the suggestion of Mr. Ward. The son and daughter of the vice president accompanied him.

Representative Theodore E. Burton of Ohio, came on the midnight train last night and will remain here for 10 days. Senator Burkett of Nebraska, spent the day here. He came to discuss coming legislation. Mr. Burkett said he found Judge Taft in favor of pushing the postal savings bank bill at the next session of Congress. He laid before the President-elect a plan for legislation authorizing the issuance of bonds to pay for permanent public improvements.

Senator Scott of West Virginia, and Mrs. Scott came to spend some time as did Senator Jonathan Bourne of Oregon. Senator Scott is in hearty favor of immediate tariff revision. He said today he believed it could be accomplished at the short session of Congress to begin next month. All of these gentlemen doubtless will take the opportunity to have talks with Mr. Taft, but the President-elect said tonight that as far as he knew he would not be called upon to make any important plans for the future for some time to come. He still insists that this for him is a vacation time.

It was stated here today by those in a position to know that the Republican campaign fund was made up of between eleven and twelve thousand subscriptions, only three or four of which were in amount greater than the ten-thousand-dollar limit fixed by Mr. Bryan.

OFFICIAL VOTE IN VIRGINIA

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 12.—Official returns of the presidential election, with one county missing, show the popular vote to have been: Bryan, 82,536; Taft, 52,648; Watson, 167; Chafin, 1,304; Debs, 576; Gilhaus, 57; Hogan, 52; Total, 136,-340; Bryan's plurality, 30,772; majority, 29,888. The total vote in 1904 was 131,283, and Parker's majority, 24,473. The Roosevelt vote was 47,885.

THEORY OF COLD CATCHING.

Physician Associates Disease With Periods of "Anticyclonic" Weather.

From the New York Tribune.

There is a timeliness in a recent discussion by Dr. C. M. Richter, of San Francisco, of the causes of grip and pneumonia. He associates these diseases with "anticyclonic" weather, when the barometer rises and the temperature falls. He is disposed to believe, however, that the effects observed at such times are due to the mechanical influence of increased air pressure, and perhaps to an improved opportunity for some solar activity to manifest itself as a consequence of the heightened purity of the atmosphere. Dr. Richter does not consider the cold responsible.

Of course, it is for his professional brethren to pass judgment on this opinion, but it is fair to suggest the possibility that Dr. Richter may have overlooked one factor in the case. The air in high pressure areas is exceptionally dry. The usual method of measuring humidity is to place two thermometers side by side, the bulb of one being kept moist. When the atmosphere is pretty well charged with vapor the readings of the two instruments may not differ more than two or three degrees. On very dry days the wet bulb thermometer will read 12 or 15 degrees lower than its companion, because evaporation then takes place rapidly, and evaporation cools. When a person is in a perspiration the condition of the skin more nearly resembles the wet bulb thermometer than the dry bulb instrument, and there is special susceptibility to the chilling influence of a dry atmosphere.

Not infrequently at this season and during the winter months the ordinary thermometer will show that in a period of 24 hours there has been a fall of 20 degrees or more in the temperature. Yet the risk which the change involves is not fully indicated if, as is usually the case, there has also been a conspicuous reduction in humidity. Proper to estimate the influence which the weather may then exert, eight or ten degrees should be subtracted from the dry bulb reading. May not cold, aggravated by dryness, be the chief agency in inducing grip, pneumonia and allied disorders, after all?

OUR MINERAL PRODUCTS.

United States Leads All Countries in Coal and Iron Production.

From the New York Tribune.

A steady growth in the mineral industries of the country is exhibited in a report for the calendar year 1907, just issued by the United States geological survey. For the first time a total production valued at more than $2,000,000,000 was recorded last year. Though the business depression felt 12 months ago limited the output in a few instances, in the great majority there was an increase ranging from 5 to 40 per cent. By far the largest contributions to the mineral wealth of the year were made by coal and iron, which together represented considerably more than half of the total. In both of these the United States now leads all other countries. Last year the value of the coal mined showed a gain of about 15 per cent on 1906. The increase in iron was somewhat less.

To the statistician iron presents a perplexing problem. It is produced in three forms—ore, pig and steel—but in order to avoid a repetition of values pig iron alone figures in the survey's summaries, although returns are obtained regarding the other products. Pennsylvania figures first in the production of iron, Ohio second, Illinois third, and New York and Alabama compete for the fourth place.

California apparently leads the procession in the production of petroleum at the present time, an amount only slightly exceeding her output having been supplied in 1907 by Oklahoma and Indian Territory combined. The largest quantities of gold mined last year were credited to Colorado, Alaska and California. In respect to silver, Utah, Montana and Colorado are about on even terms, with Nevada ranking fourth. Copper is one of the few metals mined in diminished quantities in 1907, 868,996,491 pounds being reported, as against 917,805,682 pounds in 1906. At last accounts Arizona produced the most, Michigan and Montana being not far behind.

When returns for 1908 are available a somewhat less favorable showing will doubtless be made, but by 1909 the revival of business should stimulate the demand both for metals and such nonmetallic mineral as cement, brick, stone and lime. Prosperity with a big P is likely to arrive before the country knows it.

FORGOT HIS PORTFOLIO

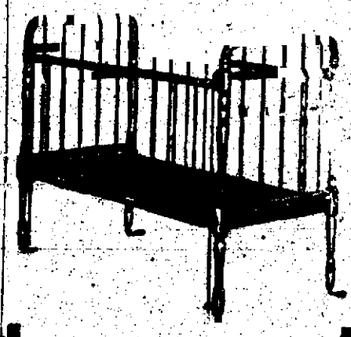

From the London Daily Mail.

M. Iswolsky is a broad-shouldered, pleasant-faced man who looks 40 and acknowledges 50 years. With an eyeglass firmly fixed in his right eye, he is the picture of a well-dressed and carefully groomed man. His scrupulous care in the selection of clothes has given rebirth to a story which has a flavor of antiquity to commend it.

The story runs that when minister at Munich, he kept waiting a distinguished visitor for three-quarters of an hour while he was closeted with his tailor. "I am exceedingly sorry," was his apology, "but the special courier with whom I have been engaged had to catch a train to Berlin, and his business was urgent." "Yes," replied the visitor, pointing to an immaculate pair of trousers hanging over the back of a chair, "I perceive he was in such a hurry that he has forgotten his portfolio."

RIDES INSIDE OF HEARSE TO PAY ELECTION BET

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 12.—One of the strangest election bets ever made became known today when Attorney Latimer was seen at noon driving up State street on a hearse and another prominent attorney, Mr. Pullen, was seen sitting inside. This procession, which lacked the solemnity usually accorded such sights, made its way from South Water street to Van Buren street along State and attracted much attention.

The wager grows out of the attempt of Mr. Latimer, who is a Taft speaker and member of the Hamilton and Marquette clubs, to jolly his friend Pullen, who has been one of the big Democratic campaign speakers in Illinois.

ATTORNEY ROBERT B. PULLEN. ATTORNEY JOS. W. LATIMER.

His enthusiasm is such that he all but frothed at the mouth when Latimer jokingly told him he was fighting for a "dead one."

"Dead one," he said. "After the votes are counted Tuesday you Republicans will be buried so deep that you can't be located with a diamond drill."

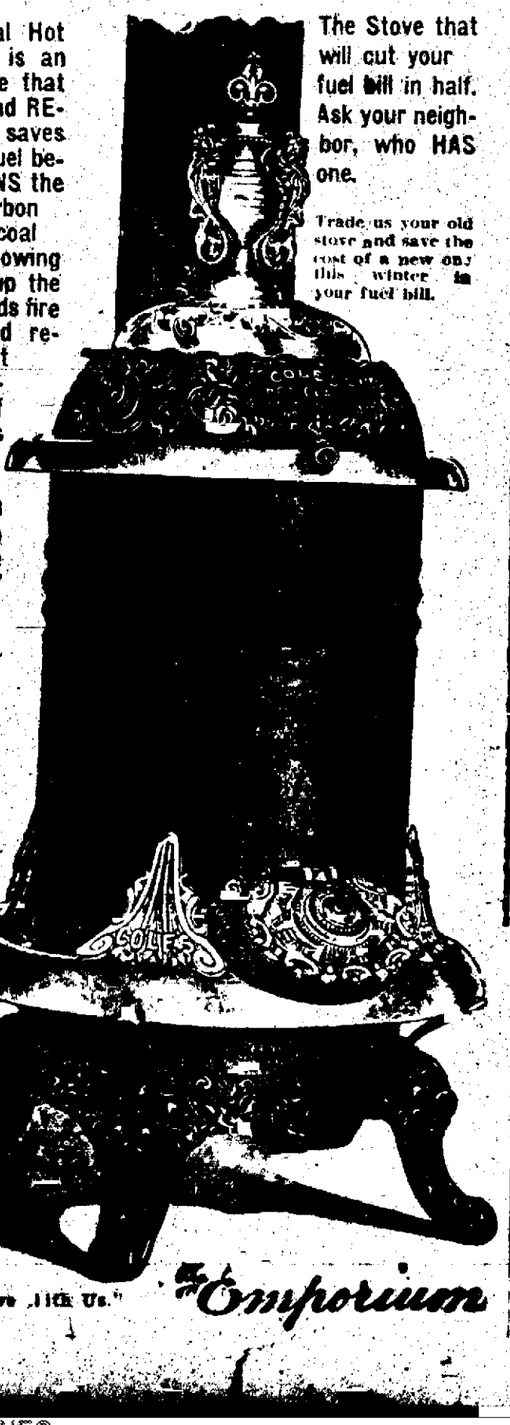

"Will you bet on that?" asked Latimer.

"Bet my life on it."

"All right. If Bryan is elected I'll agree to get into a hearse and let you drive it up State street next Saturday at high noon. If Taft is elected it's you for the hearse. We'll find out who is the dead one."

Cole's Original Hot Blast Heater is an air-tight stove that IS air-tight and REMAINS so. It saves one-half the fuel because it BURNS the gas, the carbon the life of the coal instead of allowing it to escape up the chimney. Tent Cottage Sanitarium
105 CHEYENNE ROAD

This is an ideal Sanitarium for the treatment of tuberculosis. These tent cottages are designed for light housekeeping. They have three rooms, all exposed to the sun both in the forenoon and afternoon; the rooms are large and well ventilated, without exposing the patient to a draft; there is water in the kitchen, electric light and toilet. In fact, there is everything that one needs in the home except the bath. The treatment that is used in this Sanitarium has been very successful in arresting the disease and in bringing about a healing of the diseased areas in the lungs. All those who are interested in tuberculosis are cordially invited to visit this Sanitarium and mingle with, and talk with, the patients who are under treatment.

COAL MAY GETS HIS INNING

With Cold Weather Demand Is Brisk and 2,500 Tons Have Been Delivered Since Tuesday.

Everybody is out of coal on a cold day, according to the retail coal dealers who, since the cold snap last Tuesday have delivered approximately 2 500 tons of coal to business blocks residences and the smaller industries of the city For the reason that cold weather is unusual in Colorado Springs, even in the depth of winter many householders and others allow their supply of fuel to run low keeping only enough on hand to meet immediate needs. As a result when a cold snap does come, they face the falling mercury with a scant supply of fuel

As a remedy for this perplexing situation and at the same time facilitate distribution when cold weather starts an avalanche of orders the dealers suggest that consumers keep a larger supply in reserve With delivery wagons running from dawn to dark, consumers have been supplied with coal the same day their orders are placed

There has been no shortage in the coal supply this season, and the price is the same as last year $3 75 a ton for lignite and $8.00 for anthracite The most of the coal used in Colorado Springs is from local mines. There has been a small demand for anthracite since improvements in the modern homes with steam heat and furnaces have displaced the old base burner stoves.

EIGHT-HOUR DAY FOR POLICEMEN

TRADES COUNCIL ASKS CITY COUNCIL TO ACT.

Calls Attention to Fact That Patrolmen's Hours Are Too Long and Advise Reduction

An eight-hour day for the policemen of Colorado Springs instead of the 12 hour shift in force at present, is a proposition to be presented to the City Council through a resolution unanimously adopted by the Federated Trades Council of Colorado Springs last night The council will ask the cooperation of the Merchants association in securing a shorter workday for the policemen.

The committee of the Federated Trades council appointed to cooperate with the Merchants association with a request for the appointment of a similar committee comprises R C Wright of Carpenters union No 518 George Ross of Amalgamated Union of Street Railway employes No 19, and George Alters of Painters and Decorators union No 171

Declaring that the merits of the shorter day are becoming universally recognized in national state and municipal departments, and that policemen are as much entitled to an eight-hour day as are other persons engaged in labor the resolution was adopted as follows

Wants Eight-Hour Day

Whereas, One of the cardinal principles of organized labor being the securing of the shorter workday for all persons engaged in labor and the merit of the 'eight-hour day' having been recognized almost universally in national, state and city affairs and believing that we can in no better way show our faith in this proposition and believing that the eight-hour day should be granted to those who work for wages and as many cities throughout this country recognize this policy with the police force of their respective cities therefore be it

'Resolved That the Federated Trades council of Colorado Springs Colo, would recommend to the mayor and City Council of this city that the eight hour day be granted to all patrolmen now in the employ of the city or that may hereafter be employed and be it further

"Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to co-operate with the Merchants association of this city and request them to appoint a like committee to submit the matter to the City Council for its indorsement

The trades council accepted an invitation of the Rev J H Franklin to attend a series for laboring men at the First Baptist church The subject next Sunday will be "The Moral Awakening"

Mayor D N Heiser and the water committee of the City Council will carefully investigate the proposition of President George T Bullock of the Empire Water and Power company to sell water for domestic use to the city of Colorado Springs Mayor Heiser said last night that although no definite action has been decided on the aldermen and other city officials will look into the matter as a result the conference Wednesday night between the representatives of the company and the city officials

The water committee will inspect the Empire company's watershed on the north slope of Pikes Peak and estimates will be made as to the probable cost of construction and maintenance of a municipal system having a watershed on the north slope of Pikes Peak.

Several conflicting considerations enter into the matter The Empire company points out that this city would have to undergo an initial expense of about $500 000 in pipelines, building dams etc and that in addition the interest on this sum and cost of maintenance of the auxiliary system would be more than double the amount each year, required for the city to purchase the same amount of water from the Empire company. This point is well taken, according to several city officials since the Empire company having used the water for power generation can well afford to sell it at a trifling figure as compared with the heavy cost of a separate system

On the other hand, the Empire company's anxiety to come to terms with the city may be a sign of its weakness as regards water rights on the north slope of Pikes Peak The suit filed by the company to condemn as a reservoir site the Alexander F Crowe land, on which the city has an option and lease is still pending in the district court, having been postponed by stipulation until the Council decides whether to take up this option The citizens water committee has twice urged the Council to take up this option, but the aldermen are 'flirting" with the Empire company, in the words of a prominent citizen, and the entire matter has the same status as when the Empire company first started it condemnation proceedings.

SEGREGATE SEXES IN HIGH SCHOOL

PROBLEM TO BE DISCUSSED AT TEACHERS' MEETING.

No Immediate Action Probable, Unless New High School Is Decided Upon by Board.

Whether or not better educational results are to be secured through segregation of the sexes in the High School is a problem with which public school instructors will grapple at a general teachers meeting in the High School auditorium December 8 The discussion will elicit the opinion of 150 teachers in the Colorado Springs schools upon the advisability and practicability of separate schools for the boys and girls Superintendent Dietrich will preside at the meeting.

While there is no immediate prospect of the problem confronting the board of education the teachers are taking the plan into consideration so as to be prepared to give their opinions in the event that they are called upon to do so There is little probability of separate schools for boys and girls in Colorado Springs at least until a new high school is built

In many of the eastern cities the coeducation problem has appeared to be solved by separate schools Other cities notably Chicago hold to the coeducation system

The advisability of segregating the sexes in the public schools of Colorado Springs said Superintendent Dietrich is a problem that has never confronted the board of education or the teachers As to the advisability of the plan I do not know And as to whether the students would be benefitted by any such change is a matter that can only be determined after careful study by the school authorities In the larger cities conditions are such that many of the pupils are helped by the separation making greater progress in their studies But in the smaller cities the plan has never been tried and as to whether it would be successful in this city is a difficult question to answer

CROUP

THERE IS NOTHING that strikes terror to the hearts of parents more than to be awakened in the night by the ringing cough which accompanies an attack of croup. The child may retire with nothing but a slight cold and a few hours later the family be avoiced by the ominous symptoms. Every home where there are small children should be prepared for these sudden attacks, as prompt treatment is necessary. Do not experiment with remedies of doubtful value, but get that has been in use for nearly forty years and never known to fail.

Mr. Homer Krohn, of Lisbon, Iowa, in a letter to the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy praises this medicine for what it has done for his children. He says: "It has not only saved them once but many a time. Only two weeks ago my boy had the croup so bad in the night that had it not been for having a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house he would have choked before a doctor could have gotten to the house. It is a medicine that no one should be without at any time." It is pleasant to take and many children like it.

"We guarantee every bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," says W. M. Parish, Palmerston, Ontario. "Out of the many bottles sold last winter not one was returned. We recommend it especially for children with croup." Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is famous for its prompt cures of coughs, colds and croup. When given as soon as the child becomes hoarse an attack of croup may be averted. This medicine is entirely free from narcotics or injurious substances of any kind and may be given to the little ones with absolute safety.

Attacks of croup are most likely to occur during the early winter months, and every family with young children should be prepared for it. Keep a bottle of CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY in your home. It only costs a quarter, large size 50 cents. Your druggist sells it.

HOT SCRIMMAGE AT SCHOOL

High School Pupils of Ninth and Tenth Grades Settle Question of Supremacy.

What may be termed a "color" fight took place in the Manitou high school grounds ago. A number of the members of the ninth grade assembled at the school house and hung their colors on the bell tower, thus defying the members of the tenth grade. Bright and early the next morning the sophomores, seeing the colors of the ninth grade floating to the breeze over the school ascended the fire escape to the bell tower and tore the colors from their fastenings. The captured colors did not appear until just before the close of school that day, when each sophomore displayed a fragment. The ire of the freshmen was at once aroused and the fun began. The battle raged from the hall to the laboratory, thence to the street and from there to the postoffice and back to the school, when a general mixup occurred. When the trouble finally ended no colors had been captured, but a number of faces had been slapped, some clothing torn and many tempers disturbed. The girls were just as enthusiastic in the fight as were the boys. As it is, all honors go to the sophomores, and the trouble is over until another year.

W. J. Wilson, who was fined $200 in Police Magistrate Francisco's court several weeks ago on two charges, one for selling liquor without a license and the other for selling liquor on Sunday, has signified his intention of taking the case to the county court. The trouble grew out of the club which was conducted at the Becker place between Manitou and Colorado City.

William Leonard, whose hands were quite severely burned by the explosion of gasoline at the fire last Monday evening, is able to be out and oversee the plumbing work in laying the new water mains. His hands were so badly burned in places that it will be several weeks before they will be healed sufficiently for him to take up his regular work again.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Nichols have gone to New York and on November 22 will sail with a number of relatives in a private yacht for Florida. After remaining there for a number of weeks the party will go to Cuba and Porto Rico, and expect to return to Manitou about February 1.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Cornish of Redlands, Cal., a son. Mr. Cornish is president of the Bank of Manitou, and the family spends the summers here.

The Rev. E. M. Page and Mrs. Page, who have been visiting in Manitou for the last week, will leave this morning for their home in Granite City, Ill. They expect to move to Ottawa, Ohio, in a short time.

Mesdames J. W. Carson, R. A. Hampshire and J. A. Sevitz entertained the Ladies Aid society of the Congregational church at the parsonage yesterday afternoon.

E. W. Trailer was painfully injured by being struck on the head by a heavy piece of pipe while at work on the new water line.

A. McComb is preparing to erect a seven-room residence on his lot on Manitou place.

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Saidy have gone to Denver for the winter.

The Remarkable Will Of a Doctor

He Leaves the Secret of Life to His Children and the World.

One of the world's greatest physicians upon his death bed called his children about him and said: "When I die I will leave the secret of life as I have discovered it in my practice."

When they read his will it directed them to a safety vault which contained a large envelope marked thus: "The Secret of Life." Upon opening it they read: "Don't abuse the stomach." This profound thinker after a long life of medicine, knew the stomach to be the throne of man.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will help you make the stomach healthy.

If it is worn out and lacks the fluids of digestion these tablets will take the place of such fluids.

If it is filled with poisonous juices, these tablets will neutralize and remove such poison.

If you cannot eat without agony these tablets will show you how you can. If you will eat foolishly, or drink excessively, or if business demands abuse of stomach, these tablets after meals will make such abuse light, for they take the hardship away from the stomach.

They are great digesters, filled with more powerful agents than the system can give. They go back into the blood after they have digested a meal, thereby increasing the ability of nature to take care of digestion without exhausting other organs.

High livers need feel no considerable hardship if they will eat one of these little tablets after a rich or late meal.

It is a splendid gift to the stomach and a good habit to form. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets sell for 50c per package at every drug store.

Send us your name and address and we will send you a trial package by mail. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

After the banquet a literary program will be given.

Chief of Police Wolfe is in receipt of a telegram which he has refused to answer. It is from Galesburg, Ill., and seeks to know how Charles Keough came to be killed in the Golden Cycle mill. Keough was killed while resisting Officer L. C. Moats, and experienced no injuries while working at his regular employment in the mills. It is the belief of Chief Wolfe that an attempt is being made to collect insurance from some company under false representations.

Chief of Police Wolfe was forced to exert more than moral suasion yesterday afternoon when he arrested F. O. Dougherty for drunkenness and attempting to beat his bill in the restaurant of Charles De Moss. Dougherty at first refused to accompany the police officer, and made some resistance, but he was overpowered and placed in the city jail.

The City market, formerly owned by C. E. Conner, was yesterday purchased by Emil Borst. In the purchase the big slaughter house on Fountain creek, south of First street, is included.

"Patch upon patch," asserts the thrifty housewife, "is beggarly." Coat upon coat, however, seems to be princely so far as luxury of comfort is concerned. Jack Frost could scarcely find an entering flaw in this armor against the cold. The inner double-breasted fronts, buttoned high to the throat, have outer fronts, also double breasted and with large revers and collar, which may be turned up as extra protection when needed. The big cuffs in turn may be folded down over the hand and slipped one within the other to form a comfortable muff.

"TRUST HAS COME TO STAY"

C. M. Schwab Declares That Corporations Are Industrially Solid; That They Mean High Wages.

BERKELEY, Cal, Nov. 12.—"Wealth does not mean happiness," declared Charles M Schwab in a lecture before the students of the University of California today. He defended the principle of the trust and said it had come to stay.

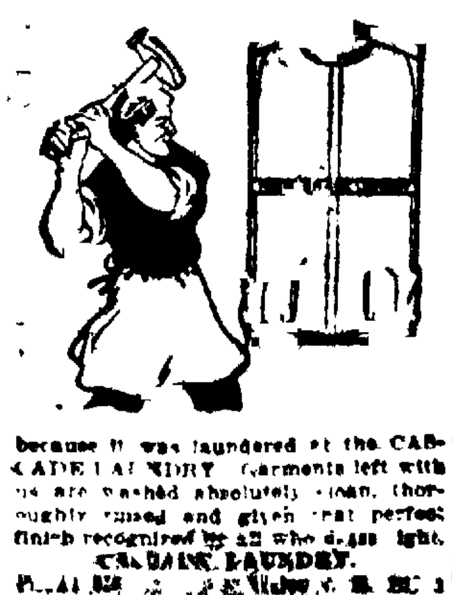

"I have occupied palatial residences in New York and Boston," said Schwab, "and thought at the time I was enjoying myself, but I know now that only the clang of steam hammers and the blowing of factory whistles means real happiness. I believe in high wages but I demand hard work in return. The United States Steel corporation always paid men high wages. This is possible only with a corporation form of organization which you call trusts. The trust has come to stay. It means high wages, economy, lack of waste and is, hence, industrially solid."

ANOTHER BIG LEAGUE

BOLTING BALL MEN MAY FORM NEW ORGANIZATION.

National Committee Will Go Almost Any Length to Avoid Complications—No Agreement.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—The warring factions of organized baseball retreated today with victory perched on neither banner. Pat Powers, president of the Eastern league, and Joe O'Brien, president of the American association who bolted the meeting of the National association of professional baseball clubs yesterday, departed on early trains.

The so-called regulars of other and more numerous leagues, belonging to the national organization, held a brief session and adjourned without date, to hold their next meeting at Memphis, Tenn., probably early in the new year. Garry Herrmann, president of the national commission, was unable to respond to a telegram from the two other members of the commission to come to Chicago, and Mr Pulliam accordingly took the train for Cincinnati.

A survey of the desired field showed that, while disputed issues may still be adjusted, the method by which this may be brought about is obscure. Both sides have taken what they term an unalterable stand and unless one of them weakens, students of baseball politics declare there is a likelihood of another major or near-major league combination consisting of the bolting leagues. It is said the national committee will go almost any length to avoid this, as the bolting leagues constitute almost the only market for players whom the American and National leagues wish to dispose of.

That the American association and the Eastern league are in deadly earnest is made to be indicated by the disposal of George Tebeau of the Denver club. Tebeau also owns the Kansas City and the Louisville clubs of the American association, and the sale of the Denver property is said to have been to avoid the embarrassment of owning a team in the Western league while running two teams in an "outlaw" organization.

In the event of a secession it is regarded as practically certain that the "outlaws" would put teams in major league territory, probably Cincinnati, St Louis, Pittsburg and Chicago. A ray of hope was discovered in the statement made by President Powers to the meeting of the National association "of the favored organized baseball," but his leaning in that direction, like that of President O'Brien, is not sufficiently strong to keep him in the organization unless his demands are met, namely, control of the board of arbitration and the privilege of drafting from the Southern and Western leagues. It is claimed that the leagues got themselves into a higher class by using a school census instead of the federal enumeration, in estimating the population to which they exhibited the national game.

HARVARD WINS SIX-MILE RUN

BROOKLINE, Mass., Nov. 12.—Harvard defeated Yale in the second annual dual cross-country meet over a six-mile course by the score of 20 to 35. Herbert Jacques Jr of Harvard, led the field after the first two miles, and won over Lightner of Yale by a great margin.

Jacques' time was 35 minutes and 46 seconds. The running of Vilas of Yale who was picked to win the event was disappointing, as he finished seventh.

Things Likely to Happen This Most Unlucky Day.

Some Unsettled Questions

If Taft Should Die Before March 4, Who Would Become President?

Horace N. Fisher in the Boston Transcript.

Though the popular majority for Secretary Taft was so great at the election on November 3 as to assure him of twice as many votes as Mr Bryan in the electoral college, though he is generally acclaimed as elected President, Mr Taft today is nothing more than a distinguished citizen in private life without official rank, and such he will continue to be until the electors of the several states meet as an electoral college and cast their votes for President and vice president on the second Monday in January, 1909.

Even then, though all the world will know unofficially the exact number of electoral votes cast for Mr Taft and that his majority is more than is required for his election, Mr. Taft will not be even President-elect; nor can he so be until the electoral votes are counted in the presence of the two houses of Congress, assembled in joint convention for that purpose on the second Wednesday in February next and the President of the Senate shall report the result of the canvass of the votes of the several electoral colleges in their respective states and proclaim him President-elect for the four years following the 4th day of March, 1909, on which day he will take the oath of office and become President of the United States.

Thus we see that between November 3, when the people cast their votes at the presidential election and the counting of the electoral votes in February—during the next three months in fact—Mr Taft will be only a distinguished citizen, and between the counting of the electoral votes in February and his inauguration as President on March 4, the President-elect, but not the President in a legal sense, nor invested with executive or other political attributes of any kind whatever.

Whence it follows that if he should die during the next four months—which may God forbid—he could not be our President. In such event, consequences of a most serious nature would arise in regard to the presidential succession, for our Constitution limits the term of office to four years from the 4th of March, so that President Roosevelt's term would expire on the next 4th of March at noon. The Constitution also provides that the vice president can succeed a person who was actually President at the time of his death or resignation and then fill out the unexpired term of the President deceased.

Let us, however, direct our attention to the possible contingency of the death of a person elected to the presidency by the popular vote of November, if that event should occur, first before the electoral colleges meet to cast their votes, second, after their votes had been cast and before they were counted, third, after they had been counted and before the 4th of March.

Famous commentators on the United States Constitution have confessed that if either of these three events should happen they doubt whether the Constitution contains any provision to meet such emergency, and they recognize the possible consequences of such defeat. Let us then consider the consequences in each of the above contingencies.

First: If Mr. Taft should die before the electoral colleges meet in January to cast their votes, could the Taft electors cast their votes for Mr Taft? And if they did so could those votes be counted when the electoral votes will officially be counted in February?

Once and only once in our constitutional history has this contingency happened. At the twenty-second presidential election, in 1872, Horace Greeley received 66 electoral votes—namely, the electoral votes of Georgia, Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri, Tennessee and Texas on November 5 and he died on November 29.

When the electoral colleges met to cast their votes in December, 1872 (which was then the date by law), 63 of the Greeley electors cast their votes for other leading Democrats rather than cast blank votes, but three of the Greeley electors from Georgia cast their votes for Mr. Greeley. When the electoral votes were opened to be counted in the presence of Congress, these three Greeley votes were rejected on the objection of Mr George F. Hoar, then representative, and later senator from Massachusetts, on the ground that a dead man was not a person within the meaning of the Constitution.

It is proper to add that, under the rules of the two houses, on this objection being reduced to writing, the Senate withdrew and each house acted separately, that on a resolution offered by Senator Edmunds the Senate voted that the votes of the three Horace Greeley electors should be counted, that the House of Representatives passed Mr Hoar's resolution that they ought not to be counted, the said Horace Greeley having died before said votes were cast. Thus, by non-concurrence, the Greeley votes were not counted.

It is submitted that this decision to reject the three electoral votes cast for Mr Greeley, known to be deceased, was entirely correct and further that the election of the other 63 was the only proper course they could have taken—for the following sound reasons as given:

They had been elected to vote for Mr Greeley as the exponent of certain political principles and policies embodied in the Democratic platform. It was the will of their constituents to support those principles and policies rather than the individual selected for carrying out those principles and policies during the four years next ensuing. It was the carrying out of this will and purpose of their constituents which constituted the vital mandate received by the Greeley electors. If that mandate became impossible of execution in all respects, owing to Mr Greeley's death, the Greeley electors were in honor bound by the cy pres doctrine, to execute the spirit of that mandate as far as in them lay.

Assuming the correctness of these views, if Mr Taft should die before the electoral colleges meet to cast their votes next January, it follows that the Taft electors would be guilty morally of breach of trust if they should throw blank votes for that would be tantamount to depriving their constituents of their right to their votes for the next president; their plain duty would be as they could not vote for Mr Taft, to cast their votes for some suitable person recognized as the most fitting exponent of the principles and policies of the Republican platform adopted in the nominating convention which formally indorsed the so-called Roosevelt policies.

Second—If Mr Taft should die after the electoral colleges had cast a majority of the electoral votes for him and before the votes were counted, what would be the duty of Congress in respect to those 306 and more votes cast for Mr Taft?

We have never had such a contingency to meet and there seems to be no provision therefor in the Constitution. But such contingency is quite as reasonable to use Justice Story's famous commentaries on the Constitution, 1833, as that three persons who had filled the presidential office should die on the 4th of July. We might be compelled to decide quickly and therefore for lack of precedents be guided by the broad principles of political morality in carrying out the will of the people.

We must keep in mind that until the "count" is made by Congress and the result is proclaimed by the president of the Senate on the second Wednesday in February Mr Taft will be merely a distinguished citizen that not yet being President it seems impossible that the vice president could succeed him as President. We should also bear in mind that Mr Bryan's electors will not constitute a majority of the electoral votes unless the Taft votes are rejected, that if the Taft votes should be rejected, Mr Bryan's majority of the electoral votes counted would be so manifest as to compel the president of the Senate to proclaim Mr Bryan President as having a constitutional majority of the electoral votes.

But in view of the fact that Mr Bryan has received not over one third of either the popular or the electoral votes, such counting and proclamation would defeat the will of the people unmistakably expressed at the election in November and therefore be inadmissible.

The conclusion seems inevitable that the Taft votes must not, in the supposed event, be thrown out as blank votes, thereby two thirds of the legal voters of the country would be deprived of their right to a voice in the election of the President for the ensuing four years.

It is, however, easier to designate danger to our political rights, guaranteed by the Constitution and intended to be protected by the laws, than to remove by legislation the obstacles suddenly arising to prevent their full exercise. As already stated, we have no precedents as a guide, still it only remains for us to see what conditions seem to be ... and indicated that we should be guided by the broad principles of political morality and carry out the will of the people in accordance with the spirit of the Constitution as it has necessarily implied, as ... Chief Justice Marshall expounded and developed the Constitution, ... more by ... modification of its letter, to bring it into harmony with its spirit. Precedents may be used as guides, but before there were precedents there existed principles which being adapted to present existing conditions be used as guides for similar events. ...

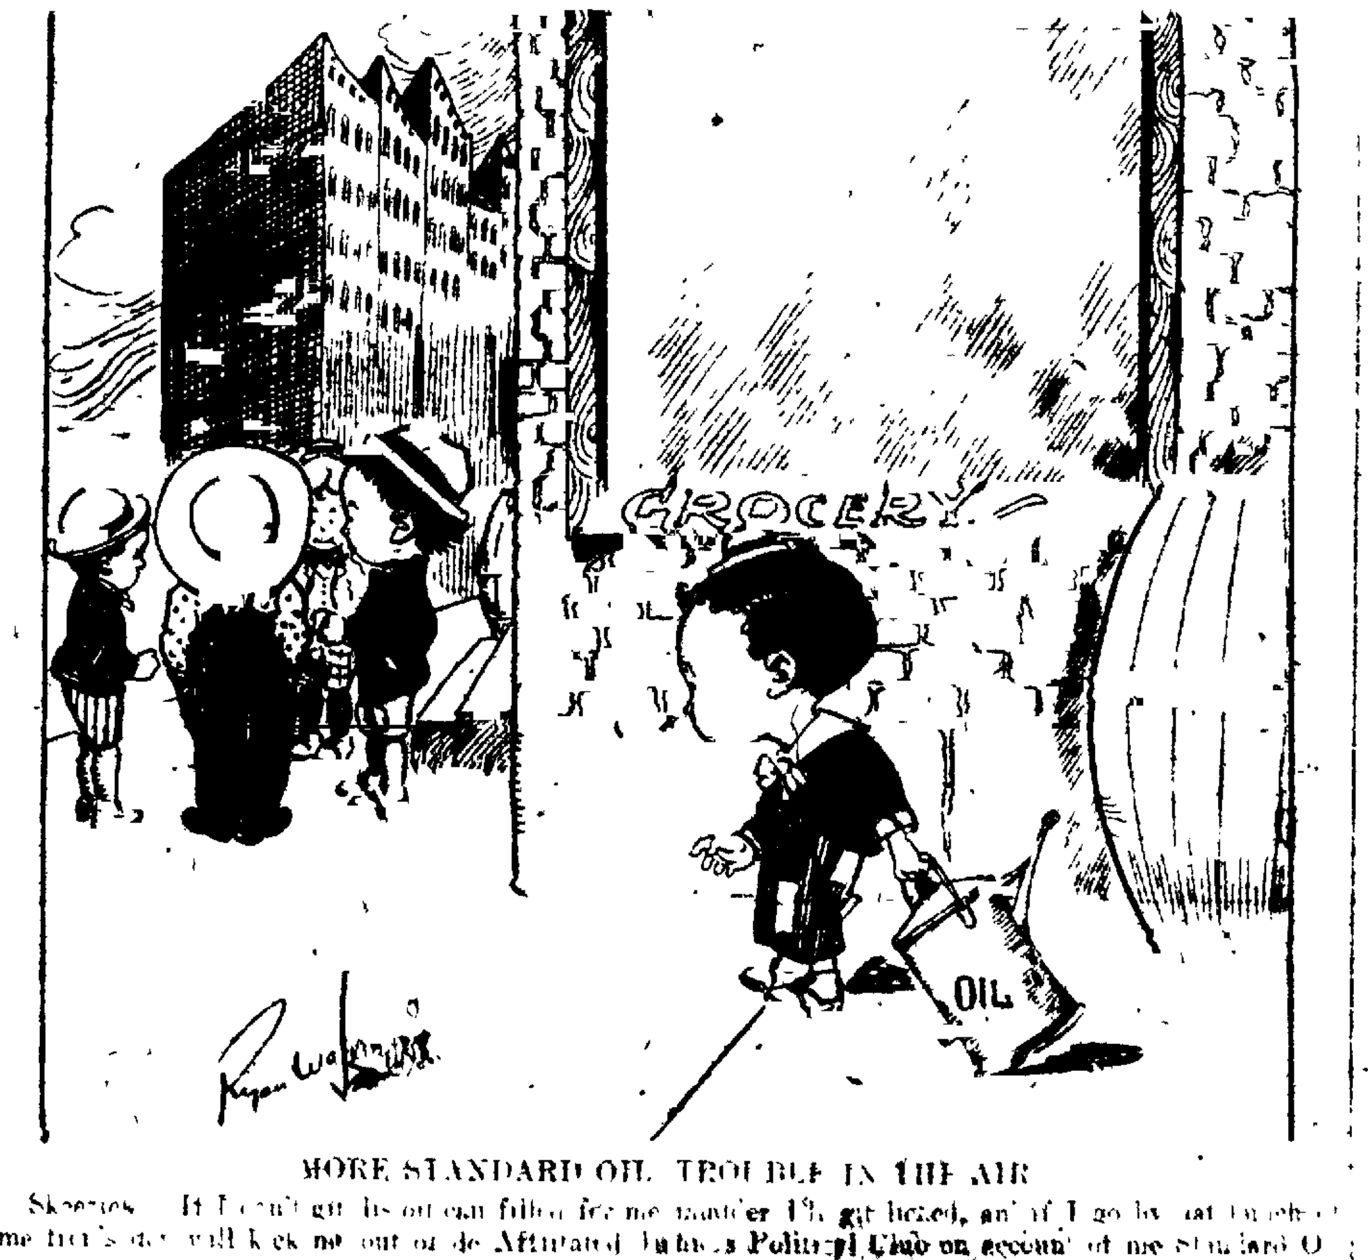

Third—If Mr. ... should die after being proclaimed President-elect, but before the 4th of March, when he could legally take the oath of office, as he could not be President, how then could the vice president-elect succeed a man who had never been President?

The twelfth amendment provides that, if no person has received a majority of the electoral votes, the election of President devolves on the House of Representatives and if the House of Representatives fail to elect a President before the 4th of March then the vice president (who ... is elected by the Senate) shall act as President, as in the case of the death or other constitutional disability of the President.

The only solution apparent to this method is the provision that the House must make its election of a President from the persons having the highest number of votes not exceeding three.

But to take either of the candidates remaining after Mr. Taft and electing a President therefrom would be contrary to the expressed will of the people and therefore as inadmissible as to throw out the Taft votes.

Under the foregoing circumstances, it seems proper that suitable measures should be taken to provide against the contingencies above discussed—which, though not likely to occur, would result in the gravest consequences to the country and to our constitutional system whenever they should happen.

FRIDAY NOVEMBER 13, 1908.

A DANGEROUS IF.

IF William H Taft should die before the fourth day of next March who would succeed Theodore Roosevelt as President of the United States? Mr. Roosevelt could not hold over, because the Constitution limits his term to four years from the date of his inauguration He was inaugurated at noon March 4, 1905, so he must go out of office at noon on March 4, 1909, whether there is anybody to succeed him or not

Judge Taft is in excellent health and there is not the slightest reason to suppose that such a terrible calamity will befall the nation as his untimely death, but stranger things have happened. Fortunately, there has been no case in our history where a man elected to the Presidency died before his inauguration The nearest aproach to this circumstance was the death of Horace Greeley on November 29, 1872, or twenty-two days after his defeat by General Grant Greeley had received 66 electoral votes, but when the electors met in December to go through the formality of casting their votes these 66 men were confronted with an odd problem. The man for whom they had been directed by their constituents to vote was dead and the question was, for whom should they vote? Sixty-three of them cast their votes for other prominent Democrats, but the remaining three voted for Mr Greeley. When the electoral votes were opened to be counted in the presence of Congress they were rejected on the objection of Congressman George F Hoar, of Massachusetts, on the ground that a dead man was not a "person" within the meaning of the Constitution

CONDITIONS THAT MIGHT ARISE.

The various phases of this important question are discussed by Colonel Horace N. Fisher in a letter in The Boston Transcript, reprinted in The Gazette today In considering the matter it is important to recognize that Mr Taft is still merely a citizen he is not President-elect of the United States, and will not be until after the Presidential electors have met as an Electoral College and formally elected him, which is to be done on the second Monday in January Even then he will not actually be the President-elect until the electoral votes have been counted in the presence of Congress convened for that purpose on the second Wednesday in February Colonel Fisher therefore considers the question as having three possibilities—the possibility of Mr. Taft's death prior to the second Monday in January, the possibility of his death between that date and the canvass of the electoral vote by Congress on the second Wednesday in February and the possibility of his death between the second Wednesday in February and the fourth day of March

In the first case the Taft electors would be morally bound to vote for some other Republican for President, and as they have a majority of the votes in the electoral college their choice would succeed Mr Roosevelt on March 4 There is no precedent for action in the second event The Electoral College would already have chosen Mr Taft as the next President, but as he had not actually become President it would be obviously impossible for the Vice President-elect to take his place In this case, and also in the case of Mr Taft's death between the second Wednesday in February and the fourth day of March the question would be up to Congress and a knotty question it would be

It is always the unexpected that happens, and who knows but that the country may some day find this problem confronting it The Constitution provides that the Vice President shall succeed the President in the event of his death or removal from other cause, and it was never thought necessary to make provision beyond that point until about twenty years ago when an accident which caused the death of several Cabinet officers moved Congress to enact a law providing for the succession, placing the Secretary of State after the Vice President, then the Secretary of the Treasury, and so on This law put an end to a possibility that might some day have caused trouble, and it would be wise to enact another law to prevent the trouble that might ensue in the event of the possibility here discussed.

THE CUBAN ELECTIONS.

THE attitude of the United States government towards Cuba is a constant source of wonder to European nations In the first place they could not understand why we did not "gobble" Cuba when we had the opportunity ten years ago. After the close of the war, when an American army occupied the island and an American Military Governor administered its affairs in Havana, European statesmen winked the other eye whenever they read the promises of our government to evacuate Cuba as soon as order was completely restored. They had heard that sort of talk before, most of them had indulged in it on their own account The Russian government had done the same thing with regard to its long deferred evacuation of Manchuria but it never intended to get out of Manchuria and never would have done so but for the unfortunate Japanese war. Great Britain had secured a foothold in Egypt in much the same way. France had done it in Northern Africa, and Germany had done it in China. It was an approved method whereby a great power might extend its rule over a country that could not be acquired in any other way. No European government really believed that the United States would ever relinquish its grip on Cuba, and President McKinley's promises to the contrary were regarded merely as the usual vaporings that preceded ultimate annexation

But, to the complete surprise of the world the American flag was hauled down in the Cuban capital even sooner than had been promised A Cuban republic, half baked and irresponsible, was established under the beneficent patronage of Uncle Sam, and another ragamuffin government was launched on the turbulent sea of Latin-American politics It was an altruistic scheme, destined to failure from the start Every observer possessed of more than a superficial knowledge of Cuba and its people knew that the Palma government could not survive It was absurd to suppose that a people trained by four centuries of Spanish misrule to confuse liberty with license could be taught in a few months the restraint and moderation without which self-government is impossible.

ANOTHER DANGEROUS EXPERIMENT.

The Cuban republic survived for a few tempestuous years, and then the inevitable happened A defeated presidential candidate hatched up a revolution and started out to prove the justness of his cause by burning plantations and robbing the planters Then came the second American intervention and the establishment of a provisional government with American bayonets to uphold its authority. That was about two years ago and Cuba has had peace and prosperity ever since—the only peace and prosperity it has enjoyed in four centuries except in the interval between the close of the Spanish-American War and the establishment of the "Republic"

Of course this was too good a thing to last. Once more the American government is anxious to demonstrate its good faith and to make good its foolish promises to bestow complete independence upon a people who are utterly unfit for it Tomorrow elections will be held in Cuba to choose a President a Vice President and members of the lower house of Congress If these elections are conducted properly the provisional government will come to an end next January, and the island will again be turned over to the Cubans.

Perhaps there is a better chance of them making a success of it than there was before, but however good the chance may be it certainly cannot be regarded as hopeful The reasons for this belief are to be found in the racial differences between the Anglo-Saxon and Latin-American peoples Our training in self-government began centuries ago with the grant of Magna Charta and it has continued ever since, each advance being gained through slow and painful effort The people of Cuba, and of every other country to the south of us except Brazil, are the descendants of the Spanish conquerors, men who grew up under a political system that represented the highest development of despotism. The basic principles of self-government are utterly foreign to them, and they cannot be learned in a day These distinctions show at a glance why our republic was a success from the start while all of the Spanish-American republics were failures in the beginning, and with one or two exceptions are failures still

Cuba may succeed in maintaining a stable government unaided but it is so doubtful that the game hardly seems worth the candle It would be vastly better for the island if it could be annexed to the United States without unnecessary delay

TAFT TRIUMPHANT.

From the Chicago Tribune.

The character and the attainments of William Howard Taft have been tried and passed upon in the national forum The great political and social forces for which he stands and of which he is representative have been weighed and tested and not found wanting by the free people of the American republic

The result is worldwide in its significance, since in the crucible of our democracy the formula of civilization's greatest experiment is working to its solution

The theorists who watched and prophesied at the beginning of the experiment feared the arts of the demagogue and the passion of the multitude The mighty truth has since been written across the pages of history that a free people will advance in even measure along the practicable highway of progress, will test men and measures in daylight common sense, will test words by deeds, will work out of the wisdom of the common life the larger wisdom which guides great nations in the path of their destiny

The election of Taft is a splendid answer to the voices that have cried out against the great reform policies of Theodore Roosevelt It is the pledge of the nation and for the nation that righteousness shall prevail in the counsels of the nation and in the great activities of the American people as it prevails in the sound and simple heart of the American people

The work which Theodore Roosevelt has inaugurated is approved, and as the foundation has been laid so will the structure rise. The people have willed it. The people will achieve it in their time.

LARGE EXPORTS, FEWER IDLE CARS.

From the Chicago Record-Herald.

The general revival or recovery of business is being greatly stimulated by the movement of the season's crops An official bulletin on the September exports of agricultural products shows an increase of $30,000,000,000 in the value of such exports over August and of nearly $13,000,000 over September of last year. The total was over $76,000,000, which established a new "record" for September's agricultural shipments to foreign markets.

Crop movements account also, to a considerable extent, for the remarkable increase in the gross and net earnings of some of the railroad systems, an advance that almost brings up their totals to last year's figures prior to the panic and shrinkage in traffic

There has, in fact, been another considerable decrease in the number of idle cars For the entire month of September the reduction in the car "surplus" was about 94,000 The latest fortnightly report of the American Railway association estimates the present car surplus at 125,700, the smallest figure for the year. The number of cars now idle is less than one-third of that reported at the end of April, the period of the maximum surplus of equipment

It appears that the improvement in the car situation has been particularly marked in the middle western, eastern and southern states. The Canadian groups already report an actual shortage of cars, though a slight one.

Grain, cotton and coal shipments are assigned as the cause of the re-employment of the idle cars in such numbers and at so rapid a rate Still, all sorts and classes of commodities are now moving more briskly, thanks to the fall trade and healthier conditions generally Further inroads on the car surplus are certain to be made, and even the possibility of another shortage is not as remote at it seemed some months back

TEACHERS AND THE ELECTION.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

It was with astonishment that I read the article entitled "Election Aftermath" in The Gazette of Tuesday morning It seems reasonable that a "Disappointed Voter" should be the last one to fling stones at others who were likewise disappointed yet here we have a decided case of "rubbing it in"

As a teacher I was present at both of the teachers meetings alluded to in the letter I may state that my political views are well known to be decidedly opposed to those of the majority of the board They were so known at the time of my appointment here Hence I would be particularly in a position to resent any interference with my right of choice as a voter Not only did I fail to understand that I or anyone else was reproached with ingratitude because of the results of the election, but I came away from the meeting with a distinct feeling that the matter of the election had been touched upon in a particularly graceful and effective manner

The question discussed was the lessons that teachers might draw from the election returns for the benefit of their pupils That it is the duty of every teacher to keep her pupil's mind attuned to the events of the world about him, no one can doubt That the subject must be handled with the greatest care, is equally evident That a difficult and yet necessary topic was handled judiciously and well, no unprejudiced hearer can deny

I quite agree with the writer of the letter that a faithful teacher owes no gratitude to the board that hires her In justice to their patrons they should not hire her unless she gives full return for her salary But I am not at all under the impression that any teacher has been asked to exhibit gratitude in what has always appeared to me a business relation. In my acquaintance among the teachers of the city I have failed to find any who feel that they are asked to show gratitude either on election day or at any other time.

It is evident that A Disappointed Voter has a personal grievance which her letter indicates but does not reveal She will doubtless recall the words of a woman speaker at the first teachers meeting in question That woman although an active politician took occasion to say that she considers women unfit for the suffrage because they are more apt to be swayed by petty personal emotions While I disagree most heartily with this statement many such letters as "Election Aftermaths" may cause me to waver in my opinion An ungenerous attack upon a defeated candidate is anything but an evidence of fitness to judge From my personal experience I can assure 'A Disappointed Voter' that it is possible in Colorado Springs to be both

A TEACHER AND A DEMOCRAT

Colorado Springs, Nov 12

THOSE INSTRUCTIONS TO TEACHERS

To the Editor of The Gazette

I am glad that my weak words have struck but thus much show of fire from Brutus It was wise in the superintendent of our schools to make his case as clear as he could in defense of his instructions to teachers on the gentle art of voting, and it was also very "kind" in the visiting ladies to give the public their impressions of the opportune talk on civics

It is not surprising that some persons should have failed to read between the lines the reasons which were in all probability, the cause for giving the whole talk on Lessons From the Election The rest of it was merely the sugar coating for the grain of quinine within the pill This bit of medicine was for those who failed to vote for persons already in office, who had been good public servants with the exception of "one fault in manners or morals It is a new doctrine that replacing one official by another is a case of ingratitude Gratitude to public officials is not quite the sentiment we usually feel even when they have no fault at all "in manners or morals. It is rather a sense of appreciation and respect for these officials are not working for gratitude

Now how came the superintendent to wax so eloquent when he reached that fifthly "ingratitude" Was he showing so much repressed feeling about the teachers ingratitude to Schisler" or Hamlin" or Collins" or was it all glittering generalities?

What "twelve favors" had been done by someone once in office now, alas, no longer there, for which ingratitude had been shown? Was it Schisler?

It seems to have been a case of "He that hath ears to hear, let him ear for some teachers sat there, like some of the visitors, and failed to catch the reproving note. Others exchanged glances and whispered discreetly but having learned prudence from experience, they swallowed their medicine meekly.

It is not what some do not hear but what others do hear that counts as evidence

However, if the superintendent was not meaning anything or anybody and only talking about nothing in particular we hasten to assure him that it sounded like a particular personal grievance to those who knew that there was ample cause for the same—but maybe it wasn't

Will the gentleman also explain "how twas" about the orders interfering with the private rights of teachers out of school hours"

"BARBARA FRITCHIE" AT THE CRYSTAL

Our scene opens outside of the Fritchie house in 1861 the stars and stripes are flying from the flag-staff Next door at the country store, some hangers are hanging about as Barbara Fritchie comes out on the porch The group of men about the store are excitedly reading an article in the paper in which Lincoln's answer to secession is a call for 50,000 troops While the men are arguing the old lady's grandson Byron comes up the street dressed in the uniform of a West Point cadet He hands his grandmother a telegram from General Winfield Scott discontinuing his furlough and ordering him to report in Washington in 24 hours The secessionists lower the stars and stripes and raise a flag of the confederacy Byron goes into the house reappears in full uniform ready for Washington As he bids his grandmother farewell she takes a mud stained flag gives it to him bidding him be true to it

Our following scene shows a battlefield where the Union forces are falling back Their flag is torn to shreds and falls to the ground as its bearer is killed Byron Fritchie rushes forward grabs the flag and leads his men up the slope to victory In the performance of his duty he gives up his life The body is returned to Barbara's home She kneels beside it takes the blood stained flag from his bosom Suddenly she listens and goes to the window The street is crowded with people waving the Confederate flag As she appears on the balcony waving the stars and stripes the people below hurl stones at her breaking the windows etc The soldiers level their guns at her when General Jackson appears on horseback He raises his sword orders them to march on then saluting Barbara continues on the march

Yens Yensen is a great comic picture that will keep everyone laughing during the full length There are two other excellent pictures that are very entertaining Special instrumental and vocal music has been secured for Friday and Saturday and during the week this will be a special feature at the Crystal The Crystal is now well heated and ventilated and will be found a very pleasant place these cold days to spend a comfortable and enjoyable hour

"PARSIFAL."

"Parsifal" is rightly and truly called a 'mystery' drama, because it illustrates by means of allegory and symbol, the secret of redeeming love Yet although correctly named a "mystery" play for the foregoing reasons, it is in no sense of the word the same as understood by this name as applied to the early "mystery" plays of the Christian church In those plays, devoid of scenic embellishments and in many instances even of appropriate costuming the action was stilted and the players seemed merely to chant with a monotonous articulation whatever dialogue was contained in the text. This method, no doubt, served the purpose of the time but it would now serve only as a reminder of the methods pertaining to the drama of those days and would simply be appreciated as such "Parsifal," on the contrary, while still being a "mystery" play, is redolent with life and color, natural and spirited in action, and in every particular much the same as the better class of the drama of the day It is this harmonious combination, combined with the beautiful story of the play itself that renders "Parsifal" the irresistible and absorbing spectacle that has made it famous throughout the world None can witness this soulful and profoundly interesting production without being awakened more fully to the consciousness of one's innermost self and the sublime power of the brotherhood of unselfish love The first act commences at 7 45 and the performance concludes at 11 o'clock The public is most earnestly requested to be seated before the house is darkened and the first act begins It will be impossible to seat any one at this picture

"Parsifal" is due at the Opera House Colorado Springs November 19

LAND SLANG FROM SEA

Nautical Terms Imbedded in Popular English Speech.

From the Dundee Advertiser

Talking of slang has anyone made a list of the nautical slang imbedded in English popular speech" Most people who speak of a person "carrying on" would be surprised to learn that they are using a nautical metaphor To carry on literally to carry a great deal of sail generally too much for the weather conditions that is to behave in a more or less sensational and foolish manner To say that one is "taken aback" is a metaphor from the management of a square-rigged ship which is taken aback when through carelessness or ill luck the wind gets round to the wrong side of the sails an awkward and perhaps dangerous accident

To give anything "a wide berth" is sailors slang, it means literally to give a thing—probably a rock or other danger—a wide bed to lie in. We speak of "sounding" a person with reference to some proposal The metaphor is that of a navigator finding his way cautiously by trying the depths say in approaching an unfamiliar shore "Landmark" is not at all a nautical-looking word, but it is strictly a mark on land—a tower building or other prominent object which serves to guide the mariner clear of rocks and shoals into a port. More obviously nautical but probably equally vaguely understood are such phrases as "sailing close to the wind" "look out for squalls," "keep one's weather eye open," "take the wind out of one's sails" "see whether the coast is clear To sail close to the wind is to keep directly on one's course when tacking is almost necessary and so to run a risk of being taken aback

To keep one's weather eye open is to keep a sharp lookout on the weather side of the ship (that is, to windward, where the weather comes from) for the signs which mark the approach of squalls To take the wind out of another boat's sails is to overhaul her (presumably in racing) and pass to windward thus cutting off her wind for the time being To see whether the coast is clear is to find out whether it is free from outlying dangers such as rocks and shoals or hostile ships or mines in naval war or smuggling

Finally we have one or two shipbuilding metaphors We speak of having a piece of work on the stocks, stocks being the frame of timbers which supports a ship while she is building If she is well built of the best materials she is A1—the highest grade in Lloyd's classification

WHITELAW REID FOR SENATE

Reported That Ambassador Will Seek to Succeed Platt.

From the New York Herald

What was regarded as a sensation came to local Republican circles, when the report became current in authoritative party quarters that Mr Whitelaw Reid, ambassador to Great Britain, in all probability will be the next United States senator from New York to succeed Senator Platt This statement came from men high in Republican councils of the state and nation.

It was asserted that Mr Reid has communicated to President Roosevelt and Mr Taft, through personal letters, his desire to retire from the ambassadorship. It was further stated that in these letters Mr Reid had admitted the attractions presented by the senatorship and his willingness to yield to them The Herald, further, is able to state that promise practically has been given by Mr Roosevelt and Mr. Taft that they will use their efforts to assist the materialization of the wish expressed by Mr Reid

In many quarters it was held by Republicans in authority that the remarkable showing in Kings county would make Timothy L. Woodruff a formidable candidate to succeed Senator Platt. It was argued that he would present an opportunity for compromise between the partisans supporting Frank S Black who has announced his intention of taking up permanent residence in New York city, and Elihu Root. But all this was before the information as to Mr. Reid's letters was made public. One of the most prominent Republican leaders in the country said last night, though refusing to allow his name to be used in connection with the statement:

"Mr Reid has acquainted Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Taft with his desire to retire from the ambassadorship The post is a most expensive one to maintain, and I can state with absolute authority that Mr. Reid believes he has served his country long enough at the court of St James In his letters too, he admitted that the senatorship held attractions that appealed to him That hint was sufficient and I believe it is a certainty that Mr Roosevelt and Mr Taft will do all they can to urge Mr Reid as Senator Platt's successor I know what I am talking about, and I believe it is assured that he will be the next United States senator from New York. Mr Reid is not hampered by politics on [illegible] will afford a happy solution of this problem Mark my words Mr Reid will be the next senator from New York

STOCKS ARE UNSTEADY

WAVERING AND UNCERTAIN TONE IN PRICES.

Securities Undergo a Decided Shrinkage—U. S. Steel Rises to Record Point—Bonds Irregular.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Transactions in stocks underwent a decided shrinkage from the recent rate of activity today. Accompanying this shrinkage in business was a wavering and uncertain movement in prices. The tendency was at all times hesitating, and the market movements were exceedingly spotty and uneven. The professional operators found themselves much puzzled to read the significance of the mixed indications and constant shifting of operations by the room traders reflected this mood. The speculative element was disposed to work for a reaction in the morning, when it seemed that large additional sales to realize had been attracted by yesterday's suggestions of weakness. Later this element worked for a recovery, when the realizing seemed to be completed. This effort was furthered by the marking up of special stocks. The languid response of the general list to this demonstration in special stocks proved unsatisfactory and led to renewed doubts over the speculative outlook.

There is no stock on the list which has more sympathetic influence ordinarily on the whole market than United States Steel. Its rise today to 56¾, eclipsing by more than a point any price ever before touched in the history of the corporation, was a remarkable demonstration. The preferred stock at 114 sold at a record price. The moderate response elsewhere was, therefore, the more noticeable.

Outside of Northern Pacific, the show of strength today was largely confined to stocks of the lower grade and smaller prices, the prominence of which is accounted a sign usually of the passing of a speculative movement into its declining stages. The lack of special news to account for the heavy demand for United States Steel gave rise to a surmise that a large and obstinate short interest in the stock was being driven to cover on such distressing terms as may be imagined from the excess of the price paid over, that at which any previous sales could have been effected.

The organs of the iron and steel trade, while detailing the many evidences of increased activity in that industry and of widespread receipt of new orders, expressed what the Iron Age called the "absurd exaggeration" of many statements current in regard to improvement that has taken place and the prospects for the winter.

The copper industrials were not conspicuous here for a price movement in either direction, although in London they were actually depressed in sympathy with the action of the metal. The sales of $20,000,000 of a new issue of Illinois Central bonds and the immediate closing of applications for the issue by the purchasing bankers was regarded as a proof of the healthy investment demand and of good promise of provision of facilities for the railroads in entering on new work. The reports of orders for new cars was in the same sense.

The declaration of an initial dividend on Colorado & Southern stock was an illustration of the results hoped for by purchasers of low-priced railroad stocks from the coming prosperity which is counted upon, although the earnings of that particular railroad, even through the period of depression, have marked it apart.

The day's net changes show some striking gains, but the restraint on the movement of such prime speculative favorites as Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, St. Paul, Reading, Amalgamated Copper and American Smelting, made itself felt in the tone of the market.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $4,836,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

WHEAT IS IRREGULAR

OPENS STRONG, WITH PRICES HIGH; CLOSES WEAK.

Net Losses for the Day 1-4 to 3-8c. Corn Is Steady; Oats Weak; Provisions Firm.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—After establishing a new high record mark for the May delivery, and equaling yesterday's high price for December, the wheat market today eased off on profit taking and closed weak at net losses for the day of ¼ to ⅜@½c. Corn was steady, oats were weak, and provisions firm.

With the exception of a sharp rally toward the middle of the session, when the May delivery advanced to $1.08⅝ and December to $1.04, the wheat market was bearishly inclined all day, and closed at almost the bottom figures, with December at $1.03⅛ and May at $1.07⅛@⅜. The weakness was due to free selling by a number of the leading longs, who were disappointed at the apparent indifference of the European grain markets to the bullish news regarding crop conditions in Argentina; all the European grain markets closing weak. The chief support came from local shorts. Advices from Argentina claimed that the drouth in the southern portion of the country was still unbroken and that serious damage would result unless relief came speedily in the shape of rain. Reports from the Ohio river valley also stated that the drouth in that section had been only partially broken. The export business today was not so lively as of late, although there was a good trade in Manitoba wheat, and Ohio millers were fair bidders for red winter wheat here. Low-grade wheat was in rather poor demand at the sample tables. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 689,000 bushels.

Buying by shorts caused several rallies in the corn market during the day, but each advance brought out liberal realizing sales, which resulted in renewed weakness. The market closed weak and near the low point, with prices unchanged to ¼ lower. Final quotations on December were at 62⅛ and on May at 62¼@⅜.

Oats displayed moderate firmness early in the day, but later became weak. The market closed weak at declines of a shade to ⅛c, compared with the previous close. Final quotations on December were 49@⅛, and on May 51@⅛.

Provisions scored a fair advance, owing to a 5@10c gain in the price of live hogs. The market closed firm, with prices up 2½ to 17½.

KID REPORTER IN LUCK

Philadelphia Dispatch to the New York World.

Given three weeks' leave of absence from his paper that he might act during the campaign as secretary of the "Philadelphia Party," a reform movement in opposition to the Republican city organization, Frank J. Gorman, 24 years old, a reporter, was nominated at the last minute for county commissioner, more to fill up the ticket than with any idea of electing him. The completion of the count showed that Gorman had slipped into a job that will pay him $5,000 a year for the next three years.

About all a county commissioner in Pennsylvania has to do is to see that election ballots are printed correctly and have general supervision over the election officers. Three are elected in each county every three years—two by the majority party, the third place going to the minority nominee who polls the larger vote of the two nominated by his party. It was in this way that young Gorman got in.

PICTURE ORE SIGHTED

HENRY ADNEY IS NEAR SOME HIGH GRADE.

Mineral in Contact Vein Has Increased in Value from $12 to $97 a Ton.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Nov. 12.—A two-carload shipment of coarse rock and screenings has been loaded out in the past two days from the Henry Adney mine, on the western slope of Beacon hill, for consignment to the valley. The ore, mined at a depth of 550 feet, is estimated at an average value for the entire 60 tons of $50 a ton. High values are also reported obtaining in this mine from a new east and west vein, recently encountered while drifting north on the main vein. From eight to 12 inches of ore, found in this contact vein, between granite and phonolite walls, have risen in value from $12 to as high as $97 a ton in the few feet of drifting from the main lode. Picked samples of this ore show considerable sylvanite, and, if assayed, would return values of the "picture" class.

TRIAL SHIPMENT SENT OUT

Ore From Los Angeles Claim Looks Promising.

Special to The Gazette.

INDEPENDENCE, Nov. 12.—A trial shipment was hauled out by wagon this morning from the Los Angeles claim, on Bull hill, under lease to Veale and associates of this town. The ore mined in the upper levels was taken to one of the local sampling plants, and should the values hold up to assay tests, the lease will be operated on an extensive scale.

NEW ORE SHOOT OPENED UP

Second Shipment Sent Out From City View Mine.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Nov. 12.—Porter and Williamson, lessees on the City View mine of the Anchoria Leland company, who recently opened up a new ore shoot on the City View dyke, loaded out their second car of ore yesterday. The lessees are operating from the Anchoria Leland main shaft and from the shaft on the City View claim. The ore shipped consisted of both screenings and coarse rock, and should average about $30 a ton.

MAKING NEW MILLIONAIRES.

Coeur d'Alene Mining District Turning Them Out Fast.

From the Technical World.

The famous Coeur d'Alene mining district of northern Idaho might well be called the millionaires' factory of America. Rich men are in the making there. Charles Sweeney, a deputy marshal during the Coxey labor troubles of a dozen years ago, now president of the Federal Mining and Smelting company, the four mines of which, although three were closed the latter part of the year, earned a net profit last year of $1,596,707; C. H. Reeves, once a barber of Wallace, now a millionaire of Spokane, the mine which his son-in-law located paying regular monthly dividends of $96,000; August Paulson, a few years ago driving a milk wagon for $40 a month, now erecting eleven-story, steel-concrete office structures and able to write his check—and have it cashed—in six numerals; L. W. Hutton, once a railroad engineer, his wife the proprietress of a village eating house, together now accredited people of great wealth—the record might be extended to include several dozen names.

In spite of the slump in the price of lead last fall the net profits of the five big mining companies in the district amounted last year to $5,119,830, adding in the majority of instances to the great wealth of men and women who a decade ago were in humble walks of life.

The records of this millionaire factory of the northwest are crammed full of picturesque, even romantic pages. Fact is stranger than fiction throughout the entire story.
